The most interesting effect of the Sonora revolt upon the Presidential situation is that it has made Obregon Presidential electioneering propaganda virtualy treason, although so far as is known Gen. Obregon has not yet joined the Sonora revolutionists.

The War Deparament, according to the published statements, considers Obregon and his chief supporter, Gen. Benjamin Hill, as belonging to the military forces, which brings them within the scope of a drumhead court-martial on charges of rebellion and treason and makes the death sentence possible. The Legislature has already declared campaigning for the election of Obregon treasonable.

The official statements declare that the uprisings by the Governors of Zacatecas and Michoacan have proved futile, that the revolt directed against Tuxpam has been suppressed, that the situation in Guerrero is uncertain and that minor disturbances in Carranza garrisons in the southeast part of the State of Pueblo have been crushed.

Army officers studying the situation beyond the border were frank in declaring their opinion, based on government advices, that the revolution was more serious than the Carranza officials were willing to admit. These officers attached much

Big British Oil Deal

LONDON, April 26.—Negotiations are in progress between the government and the Shell Transport and Trading Company with a view to some form of government control over this big oil firm, according to the Daily Mail. The newspaper says there is reason to believe that, as a result of Great Britain's war expenses and the present feverish activity by American oil interests, the government has resolved that steps must be taken to insure the vast interests of the Shell company will never pass out of British control. The negotiations involve a plan for exchanging government stock for Shell company shares. Elaborating its reference to the activities of American oil men and the view that "their oil fields are showing signs of exhaustion," the Daily Mail intimated that the government's action has as its motive a desire to prevent Americans from absorbing companies controlling actual or potential sources of Great Britain's oil supply.

HARRY CARR FINDS PUBLISHERS BELIEVING HOOVER WOULD SWEEP COUNTRY IF GIVEN NOMINATION.

BY HARRY CARR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—Once a year it is possible to find out what the people of the United States are really thinking about. This is when the publishers have their annual convention in New York. Coming as they do from all sections of the country and being of all creeds and political complexions and being always in the very thick of things, they furnish an accurate cross section of the thoughts of this nation.

The publishers' convention having been in session the past week I have seized the opportunity to talk to a great many of them and to find out what they are thinking about.

As to the general state of affairs I find that a great majority of the publishers feel that we are in the midst of a golden day upon which the sun is due to set very soon. In other words, they feel that this country cannot continue this debauch of wild extravagance for a very great while. Consequently we all are for a dump. There seems to be a general feeling, however, that a real panic will be averted. The revision downward will be sharp and uncomfortable, but it may not be attended by the disasters of the terrible years of panic.

As to the case with which the elephant succeds in climbing down from the stool, it depends largely on what happens at the coming national conventions.

REGARD JOHNSON AS PERIL.

Without regard to party affiliations most of the publishers seem to regard Hiram Johnson as a great national peril, representing as he does the forces of radical labor unionism and other brands of disturbance. If Mr. Johnson is defeated for the nomination it is regarded as very probable that he will bolt the party. If he is nominated "it will cause others to bolt the party resulting in chaotic political conditions. If he should be elected President of the United States, it is believed that it will inevitably bring on a business panic.

Veveral well-known publishers from widely scattered parts of the country expressed to me the belief that Hoover would sweep the country if nominated, but it will be difficult to force the politicians at the convention to nominate him.

Wood is regarded as a respectable married man and an amiable army doctor, but most of the publishers feel uneasy as to his backing. Who and what are the real forces behind him?

AS TO LOWDEN.

Lowden is looked upon as an exceedingly probable nominee. He is fortunately situated geographically; he is a politician and so is welcome to other politicians. They feel sure of him and he comes in the rather commonplace lines that makes for political success.

But you hear from other quarters expressions of cynical doubt. The two conventions are both pretty sure to be what politicians call "dog fights." Anything is likely to happen and anybody is likely to be nominated after the first round of pledged votes have been cast. I was told by a great many publishers that no national convention ever held has been uncertain as to its probable outcome.

Every editor and publisher to whom I talked expressed himself as opposed to the huge war bonus for returned soldiers' but thought it was inevitable that the pressure on Congress was too strong to be resisted and that this would be but the first of a long succession of pension grabs.

As to international affairs, I was impressed especially by the attitude of the publishers from the Middle West in relation to President Wilson and the Peace Conference.

OPINIONS ON WILSON.

Most of them seem to think that Mr. Wilson has not had a square deal, that he is visionary and self satisfied and fell into the hands of some diplomatic hyaens who outdid him in astuteness, but nevertheless he is not deserving of the bitter denunciations he is receiving.

The fact is that if Mr. Wilson were Benedict Arnold returned to life he could be scarcely more unpopular in the East. It has become the fashion to heap on him the bitterest scorn and the most severe denunciations. It is about as popular to defend Mr. Wilson in conversation as to defend the Kaiser.

But these Middle West publishers feel differently about it. The Secretary of Agriculture spoke at one of the publishers' luncheons last week and made an appeal to all the newspapers to stop hammering the Federal government and thus crippling its activities unless by actual investigation they found something really wrong to hammer. This seemed to strike a responsive vote. Perhaps the majority of publishers feel that President Wilson did the best that he knew how and was unselfishly patriotic in his endeavor to put across the League of Nations upon a group of selfish, grasping burglars who were intent on grabbing out of the victory over Germany all they could lug away under their arms. They feel that the President tried to talk ideals to a gang of hold-up thugs, but that he deserved sympathy and credit for trying.

SHUT DOOR ON EUROPE

On the other hand the attitude of most of the western publishers seemed to be a settled determination to shut the door upon Europe and European affairs, particularly as regards money.

A great interest was displayed in the affairs of California. In his speech already mentioned the Secretary of Agriculture spoke for an hour or so about the momentous progress of farming and manufacture, etc., and only mentioned one other State except California and that when he told of a wheat blight in the Northwest.

A very significant topic of discussion among publishers I found was the gasoline situation. Within the past two or three years, so many new uses have been found for gasoline-driven machinery that "gas" has become almost overnight a part of everyone's life. Modern farms are practically run on gasoline, and every family has learned to rely upon it as an absolutely essential and necessary part of life. The plain and inevitable truth is that there is not going to be enough gasoline to supply the demand and a great crisis will one day—and that before long—develop from an acute shortage of something that we make a life necessity.

WOOD'S LEAD IS LARGE IN COUNTY CHAIRMEN POLL

Sun-Herald's Tabulation Shows Army Man's Popularity; Johnson in Sixth Place.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Sun and New York Herald has now completed its poll of the Republican county chairmen in the forty-eight States of the Union (with the exception of Florida, which is unresponsive to inquiries.)

The results obtained have been both interesting and valuable.

With a clear understanding of just what this newspaper was understood to do, bearing in mind that the State stories were printed in alphabetical order (one each day beginning March 1) reporting circumstances as they existed at the time, and considering results of State preferential primaries already held, a study of the completed table is of particular interest.

The Sun and New York Herald asked each county chairman to check on a poll blank containing the names of twenty-one potential candidates whom he considered to be the first choice of the Republicans of his county for the nomination for President. He was asked to indicate also the second choice, to say what in his opinion, would be the paramount issue of the campaign and to report whom the Democrats of his county seemed to prefer for their Presidential candidate.

In order that the chairmen might fear no embarrassment in giving a frank expression of opinion it was made clear that in no way would their names be revealed or their counties identified. That this agreement was taken on its face value was indicated by the large percentage of returns in the poll and by the unreserved expression of opinion in regard to all the information sought.

ANALYZED BY STATES.

In reporting the results of the poll the returns were tabulated and analyzed by States. The candidate who received the highest percentage of first choice votes in a particular State was declared to be the "first choice" of that State. The candidate coming next in order was declared to be the "second choice," the first and second choice votes being added together where there was any question of precedence.

Of course, it would have been unreasonable to have started with the proposition that the entire vote of every State would be cast at Chicago in accordance with the indicated "first choice." Obviously, however, it was impossible in such a work of straight reporting to attempt to split delegations in the table. So merely as a very general basis upon which to work and from which deductions might be drawn, the various candidates were credited from day to day in the summary at the bottom of the table with the total number of votes of the States where they appeared as "first choice."

Gen. Wood, 429; Gov. Lowden, 236; Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania, 76; Senator Harding of Ohio, 48; Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, 43; Senator Johnson of California, 36; Senator Watson of Indiana, 30; Senator Sutherland of West Virginia, 16; Senator Poindexter of Washington, 14; Senator Borah of Idaho, 8.

TEN STATES DIVIDED.

This accounts for 966 of the 974 votes that will be cast by the State delegations at Chicago. The other eight votes are those of Florida. In addition to the 974 votes of the forty-eight States, ten more delegates will have votes, making a total voting list of 984. These ten are divided, two to the District of Columbia, and two each to the territories of the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska. A majority of the convention vote necessary to nominate will be 493. If we add the eight votes of Florida to Wood's hypothetic total he would have 437. And, if the ten votes from the District of Columbia and the four territories which the Sun and New York Herald made no attempt to poll, and the disposition of which it is impossible to predict at this time, it would give Wood only 447. This would be forty-six short of enough to nominate.

CAN'T WIN ON FIRST BALLOT.

The contemplation of this exaggerated and hypothetic total for Wood is useful merely by way of indicating that the general cannot conceivably have enough votes on the first ballot to win.

Gov. Lowden has the next largest number of hypothetic votes in the table, a total of 236. Those given to other candidates represent simply "the favorite son" vote of a single State in each case, except in that of Senator Johnson and that of Gov. Coolidge. To the twenty-six votes of California are added the ten of North Dakota in the Johnson count. Coolidge gets the thirty-five of Massachusetts where he is Governor and the eight of Vermont where he was born.

The completed poll, therefore,

SIGN AGREEMENT TO RESUME TRADE; MILLIONS IN GOLD IS SENT TO THE UNITED STATES

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

COPENHAGEN, April 25.—M. Krassin, Russian Bolshevik Minister of Commerce, signed on Friday an agreement with representatives of international industrial and commercial organizations settling the main lines of the programme for the resumption of trade between Russia and the rest of the world.

The most important point in the agreement calls for the establishment of an international clearinghouse, co-operating with Russia, in Copenhagen as the center of the revived trade.

Special branches of this clearinghouse are to be established in most of the countries of the world. The first and foremost of them will be in the United States.

LONDON, April 25.—The Berlingske Tidende of Copenhagen says today that a Danish financial group, in which British concerns also are said to be interested, has arrived at an agreement with Gregory Krassin, Russian soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce, according to a dispatch to the London Times. Trade with soviet Russia will soon be resumed, the dispatch adds.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A plan for the opening of trade with soviet Russia by the sale and delivery at Reval, Esthonia, of $20,000,000 worth of gold, which could be used for the establishment of credit here, was announced today by Emerson P. Jennings, president of the American Commercial Association for the Promotion of Trade with Russia.

The proposition, which aims to open trade without political complications, is fostered by M. Litvinov, head of the Russian Council of Cooperatives. He is seeking a buyer for the gold in this country, according to Mr. Jennings.

CRISIS DUE IN SILESIA.

Poles Demand Suppresion of Huns.

Demonstrations of Protest Against Military Police are Numerous.

BY COL. HENRY J. REILLY.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KATTORVITZ (Upper Silesia) April 25.—A crisis is approaching in Upper Silesia. There were impressive Polish demonstrations in the principal cities today protesting actions by the Germans and also demanding the Interallied mission suppress the Sicherheits polizei, or military police, substituting a Silesian gendarmerie, half-Polish, under orders of the mission. They ask the mission to forbid the exportation of food, chemicals and supplies in the direction of Germany.

The balance of the demands virtually close Upper Silesia, making it an international state, the Interallied mission governing. The Germans are holding a counter demonstration today. They maintain Polish activities in Upper Silesia are propaganda, the facts here being different from those obtaining in Posen.

They say Polish demands are a scheme to defeat the growing chances of the Germans winning the plebiscite. They claim the Allied mission interferes in the judiciary courts and in business in a manner not contemplated in the treaty and permits Polish propaganda.

The Poles claim the mission is weak in yielding to German labor unions', demand for the establishment of workers' councils, constitutionally provided after the Polish labor leaders had prevented a general strike designed to force such a yielding.

Independent Socialists and Communists maintain the plebiscite is of no importance, that capitalism is ripe to fall in this part of the world, and they are ready to assume control. The bad feeling in all directions steadily is increasing, and in consequence of this situation bloodshed is possible any time.

BILL WOULD RESTRICT CHINESE EGG IMPORTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—When the Senate takes up the national cold storage act this week it will be asked to consider amendments affecting California shippers and growers. Through Senator McNary barriers will be raised in shape of an amendment to prevent the invasion of the Pacific egg market by cheap and inferior grades of Chinese products.

If the amendment proposed by Senator McNary is adopted with modifications, it will make it well nigh impossible to import Chinese "hen fruit" except at excessive prices. The provision would not place an embargo, but the restrictions would be as effective.

The amendment reads "any and all eggs offered for importation after transportation or through transportation of more than three weeks in a refrigerated vessel or more than two weeks in a non-refrigerated vessel must be stamped as to each individual egg, with the name of the original point and the date of shipment and any eggs not so marked shall not be admitted into this country and shall not be delivered to the consignee thereof."

MODEL ROADHOUSE IN DENVER RAIDED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, April 25.—The notorious Model roadhouse in Adams county was raided again Friday night. Elaborately gowned and expensively jeweled women tried to jump out of windows. Hysterical girls fell on the floor and wept. Prominent business men fought like wild animals to break through the net of the law. A bulldog fought a losing battle to defend a jug of "moonshine" and Leon "Frenchy" Simmons, proprietor of the roadhouse and five gallons of moonshine brew were pinched and thrown into the Brighton bastile.

It was a wild night at the Model roadhouse. The lookout was at his post. Revelry was at its height. The moon was not shining out of doors, but the authorities allege that "moonshine" was flowing in the roadhouse.

Out of the darkness came the law. Sheriff Gormley and a half-dozen deputies were at the roadhouse before the lookout discovered them. He gave the signal and the raiders stormed the house. Several women rushed to the windows and tried to jump out. Included in the catch of the raiders were three business men from Fort Lupton, one of them a widely-known automobile dealer, and two prominent men of Brighton. They gave fictitious names.

While the deputies were busy corraling the guests in the roadhouse Sheriff Gormley discovered a jug of "moonshine" under a bulldog's bed on the back porch. As the Sheriff reached for the jug the bulldog jumped for his throat. A lively battle ensued, but ended quickly when the Sheriff rapped the dog on the head with his revolver.

At the time of the raid there were thirty-five men and women—mostly women, in the house, according to the officers. Simmons, the proprietor, was arrested on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Some twenty Denver society women escaped during the excitement and all of the rest were released by the Brighton Sheriff.

BOMBAY, April 25.—The chief commissioner for Assam has dismissed the appeal in the case of the Rev. L. D. W. Jackman, the American medical missionary who was recently sentenced to two years' imprisonment for killing Maj. H. D. Cloete. Mr. Jackman entered the appeal March 28.

ITALY BOWS TO WILSON.

Accept President's Adriatic Plan.

Nitti Declares San Remo Conference will Act in Accord with American View.

SAN REMO, April 25.—The Adriatic question will be settled by the San Remo Allied conference in accordance with the note of President Wilson. This was the decision announced today to correspondents by Francesco Nitti, Premier of Italy. It amounts virtually to Italy bowing to Wilson despite the repeated press attacks on the American Executive by the Italian press.

SAN REMO, April 25.—[By the Associated Press.] The Supreme Council today decided to ask President Wilson to arbitrate the boundaries of the new republic of Armenia. The Council awarded a mandatory for Mesopotamia and Palestine to Great Britain, and a mandatory for Syria to France.

The Council is sending a formal request to President Wilson that the United States government take the mandate for Armenia.

There seems to be division on the part of the council as to whether the region of Erzerum and its vicinity should be included in the territory of the Armenian republic. The Turkish Nationalists are strongly claiming Erzerum for themselves.

In placing Palestine under a British mandate, the council established within the ancient limits of the Holy Land what is called "the national home for the Jews."

The terms of the mandate protect the national rights of Jewish citizens of other countries. That is to say, a Jew of America, British, French or other nationality may retain his nationality, although he is also a citizen of the State of Palestine. The rights of Arabs are also protected, there being 600,000 in Palestine and 100,000 Jews. The mandate is limited generally by what is known as the Balfour declaration. British forces have been in occupation of Palestine since the defeat of the Turkish forces by the British field marshal, Viscount Allenby.

France has been the protector of the Christian in Syria since the middle ages. The question regarding Syria has been in serious controversy between the French and British governments since the armistice.

STIFF NOTE TO GERMANY.

The agreement between Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George concerning Germany was presented to the Supreme Council today and will form the basis of a very stiff note to Germany, which will be ready for signature tomorrow by Great Britain, France and Italy, Japan and Belgium. The United States will not sign the note.

Either the declaration or an authoritative condensation will be made public tomorrow, Mr. Lloyd George announced tonight.

"The document is the result of private coversation between Premier Millerand and me which resulted in complete agreement upon the policy to be adopted," he added.

Lloyd George, replying to questions, also said:

"We have discovered the use of military means to enforce the treaty and when not necessary to use them. My statement to the House of Commons is perfectly clear. My view is that Germany should not be prevented from restoring order in Germany. No one has the right to say we are not prepared to use military force to enforce the treaty."

It is understood from another source that one extremely important point in the agreement between the British and French Premiers defines it to be in the interest of France to fix, at a meeting to be held early in May in a Belgian city, where representatives of the Allies will meet representatives of Germany, a sum Germany must pay the Allies immediately. It is even said that the Allies have tentatively fixed an annual payment of three billion marks, prewar exchange, for thirty years, as a suitable payment, but that the German government will be asked in the meantime to make the proposal of a lump sum.

OPEN RUSSIA'S GATES; NITTI.

Premier Would Resume Relations with the Slavs.

Says World is Sick and Tired of Supreme Council.

Hopes the San Remo Conference is the Last One.

BY EDWIN L. JAMES.

SAN REMO, April 25.—Signor Nitti, the Italian Premier, wishes all commercial bans against Russia lifted immediately and save that would lead to lifting of diplomatic restrictions. He believes the way to solve the Bolshevik danger is to open wide all gates to Russia and let the world see the mess Lenine and Trotsky have made in Russia. That, he believed, would remove all danger of workers of other countries wishing soviet rule for themselves.

Nitti believes nine-tenths of the troubles of these days are due to the fact that the world has forgotten how to smile and to see beautiful things. It is high time, he says, for people to learn again to smile.

Following the suit of his two associates on the Supreme Council, who abandoned their formal vote of last Sunday to have no relations with newspaper men during the San Remo conference, Nitti received a number of correspondents. He told them to ask any questions they liked. Some he answered, some he parried, but through his ordeal, the Italian Premier gave an exhibition of rare good humor and good nature.

Asked how long the Supreme Council intended to exist, he replied that he hoped the San Remo conference was the last one.

"The whole world," he said, "is sick and tired of the Supreme Council and so am I."

The Premier offered no information. He said the Adriatic muddle would be settled at San Remo and when the question was asked about Russia, it was plain the subject had been upon which Nitti wished to speak.

"Yes," he said, "I want to see relations resumed with Russia at once."

"Diplomatic or commercial?" he was asked.

He waved his hand and replied:

NOTHING AGAINST RUSSIA.

"Oh, one leads to the other. You know, any ally has the right to deal as it likes with Russia, for we were not at war with Russia. Russia is an ally who collapsed. Any nation has the perfect right to resume relations with Russia, but we should act together in one league. We want the Russian people to know that we have nothing against them, but the Allies must have assurance that the Russians will not try to interfere in our internal affairs. Having obtained that assurance we shall be able to go ahead, each in a manner he thinks best. The world needs Russia, especially Europe does. Frankly, I do not believe there is much grain or raw materials to be had from Russia this year. But because of exchange rates and war reasons, Europe faces five or six bad years. If Russia is helped get along again, she can aid herself by next year and succeeding years.

"Now, in many countries there are working people who believe Russia is a heaven on earth, which the Bolsheviki have built. I want to let everybody go to Russia and see what ruin the soviets have made and let those who see judge whether or not they want the same regime in their country.

"They will not want it and the Bolshevik peril can be ended by letting every one see just what Bolshevism amounts to in practice."

MUST BE FIRM

On the subject of Germany, Nitti said the Allies must act with firmness and justice.

"Germany has lost the war for which she was responsible and she must pay," he said. "She must pay what she can, but we must not demand more than she can pay. Europe needs Russia, but Europe needs Germany, too. Germany must be put back on her feet. The forces of production must be released again. The war is over, please remember. Forget it. Let us get back to peace. Germany must be disarmed and she will be. And, then the Allies and all the world should disarm. Italy is setting the example. We have reduced the number of corps and cut our service term to eight months. We will go further when others do and are willing to lead the way."

In reply to the question whether he favored granting Germany's request for an army of 200,000 instead of one of 100,000 Nitti said:

"When she asks to keep heavy artillery and military airplanes Germany is wrong. When she asks for a sufficient army to maintain order she is right."

When the Premier was asked if it were true the Allies would institute German debts to Brussels to take over financial arrangements, Nitti wrung around and shouted:

THE WAR IS OVER.

"And why not? That shows you are thinking in terms of war. Young man, the war is over."

Nitti sunk back into his chair, and launched into his favorite subject.

"War and peace," he said, "are not only facts, but they are states of mind. The trouble with the world today is that it is in a war state of mind. It must get into a peace state of mind. The war is over. Let's have peace. We of today are becoming brutal and stupid because we have too much war on the brain. We are becoming crazy and hard. No poetry is being penned, no music composed, no great books written. For seven years the universities have done little and the intellectual level of mankind is falling. To me that is sad. Let us forget about war and write poetry and sing sweet music. The trouble with the world today is that it has forgotten how to smile. When two men stand always face to face, each believing the other intends to murder him, they will end it by fighting. If they go on about their business when they meet and one smiles to the other, the other will smile. We need smiles in the world today."

CUTS WAR RISK LAW'S RED TAPE.

Measure Revising Insurance Act Ready for House.

Bill Aims to Save Veterans Time and Money.

Fourteen Regional Offices may be Established.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—War veterans holding government insurance will be able to pay their premiums at their local postoffice if Congress passes a bill which has just been approved by the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce. The measure revises the war risk insurance law with a view to the elimination of much of the red tape. Representative Sweet of Iowa, who has served as chairman of the subcommittee which has been handling this class of legislation will report the bill to the House early this week.

The plan as outlined in the bill has the approval of the Treasury Department of which the bureau of war risk insurance is a part. It provides for the establishment of fourteen regional offices in the United States and outlying possessions. The bureau of public health service and the Federal board of vocational education have a like number of offices and an effort is being made to co-ordinate the work to be rendered by these three government agencies to soldiers, sailors and marines of the recent war.

All of these offices will probably be consolidated in one building in each of the cities in which they may be located. The bill also provides for the establishment of such sub offices as may be deemed necessary to the best interests of the work of the bureau.

The bill also provides that the bureau of war risk insurance shall relieve from the payment of premiums on renewable term insurance the following persons: (A) Those who are receiving hospital care under the bureau, during the period they are receiving such care; (B) those who are receiving vocational training pursuant to the vocational rehabilitation act, during the period of such training; and (C) those who are temporarily totally disabled by reason of an injury or disease entitling them to compensation during the period of such total disability.

It is estimated that the amount of premiums on renewable term insurance, the payment of which the veterans would be relieved of for the fiscal year 1921 would be about $5,000,000. The bureau is also directed to provide without charge therefor, hospital, dental, medical and surgical care and treatment for all honorably discharged commissioned officers and enlisted men, disabled by reason of any wound or injury or disease contracted while in the service of the United States.

CASH NEED IN HOOVER FIGHT.

Millionaires Back Johnson Machine; Money Required to Break its Grip.

Money is the prime need in the campaign to elect in California a Republican delegation pledged to support Herbert Hoover for President. While the Johnson machine in this State, backed by a coterie of California millionaires, is raising a large sum to promote the Johnson cause, the organization that is fighting for Mr. Hoover is crippled by lack of funds.

Every citizen therefore, who is opposed to the domination of politicians, and to machine rule generally, can fight most effectively with his dollars. The Hoover campaign and the cause of efficient government can best be served right now by sending cash contributions to Henry S. McKee, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank, Sixth and Spring streets, Los Angeles, and treasurer of the Hoover Republican Club of Southern California.

GERMANY PAYS HUGE SUM FOR RAILWAYS.

BERLIN GOVERNMENT NOT SANGUINE FOR EARLY RETURN ON INVESTMENT.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, April 25.—Forty billion marks are involved in the government's purchase of the Federated States Railways, which has been approved by the National Assembly. The annual interest incurred in the nation's huge investment is estimated at 14,000,000 marks. The government is not overeanguine for early returns from the investment, in view of the dilapidated condition of the railways, the delayed output from repair shops and continued demands by the men for wage increases.

"The peace treaty we have completed does not present a bewitchingly beautiful face, but it possesses desirable qualities in political and economic directions," said Dr. Bell, Minister of transport, in the National Assembly, just before the vote was taken. He described the transaction as one of the most gigantic ever effected by any Parliament.

The Minister added that more than 1,000,000 employees of the railways will be on the government pay roll.

FAMILY OF EIGHT IS MYSTERIOUSLY KILLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TURTLE LAKE (N. D.) April 25.—Eight persons were found dead yesterday at the farm home of Jacob Wolf, three miles north of here, victims in a mysterious tragedy.

The dead:

Jacob Wolf and his wife; their five daughters, Bertha, aged 13; Edna, 8; Mary, 10; Lydia, 5, Martha, 4, and Jake Hofer, 13 years old, who was employed on the farm.

Only one member of the family escaped, Emma, 8 months old.

Authorities believe all were murdered with a hatchet. The bodies of the mother, three daughters and the hired man were thrown into the cellar by the slayer or slayers, and those of the father and two children put in a cowshed and barn and covered with hay.

Serbian Rail Strike Over.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUCHAREST, April 25.—The Serbian railway strike has ended, but mail and passenger service to Southern Europe is still tied up. In order to obviate delay it has been decided to organize an air service to include Paris, Vienna, the Balkan states, Constantinople and later Russia. The French commercial mission, assisted by Col. De Goy's corps of French aviators, will have charge of the route and the first passenger machine will leave Paris in June for the initial Paris-to-Constantinople nonstop flight.

Dutch Transport Strike Lost.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

THE HAGUE, April 25.—Both the Rotterdam and Amsterdam transport laborers have decided to resume work Monday. The strike, which lasted ten weeks, has ended in the defeat of the laborers, who return to work under the old conditions. Negotiations have been opened to end the boycott against Dutch ships which was proclaimed by the International Transport Workers' Federation.

WOOD LEADS IN CHAIRMEN POLL.

shows Gen. Wood and Gov. Lowden as the outstanding figures for the nomination so far as existing sentiment of Republicans was reported by the county chairmen at the time the polls were taken in the various States. Wood was first choice in twenty-four States and second choice in eighteen. Lowden was first choice in thirteen States and second choice in twenty-one. In addition to being first choice in his home State, Senator Harding was second choice in four States, Illinois, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Texas.

ALLEN KEEPS FAITH.

Senator Johnson was second choice in the eastern-tip State of Maine and the far western Nevada. The only others in the "second choice" column are Gov. Allen of Kansas, who undoubtedly would have been a first choice except for the fact that he declared for Wood a long time ago and "kept the faith" and Judge Peter C. Pritchard of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The latter is so highly thought of that the Republican organization of North Carolina, his native State, intends to make a Pritchard demonstration at the Chicago convention.

For purposes of speculation, figuring up the votes each might get from the States where he was second choice, we have these totals:

Wood, 408; Lowden, 379; Harding, 119; Johnson, 18; Allen, 20; Pritchard, 22.

And, continuing in the speculative realm, if we give each candidate all of the votes of the State where he was either first or second choice, we get the following totals:

Wood, 827; Lowden, 645; Harding, 147; Johnson, 54.

BASIS FOR SPECULATION.

But these figures are useful only as a basis for speculation.

In analyzing the situation as given in our table, which represents an accurate report on the majority Republican preference at the time given, and comparing it with present conditions or probable eventualities, there are many factors to be considered.

First, there are the preferential primary States, no two laws being uniform and many being vague, if not absolutely ambiguous as to the extent to which the State-wide vote binds the delegation.

Second, there are those States where only one or possibly two State leaders control the selection of delegates who are likely to vote in accordance with the judgment of the leaders, regardless of any sentiment among the rank and file that may have been aroused by propaganda or otherwise.

Third, those States where sentiment swing, as indicated in the individual poll stories at the time, has fixed now upon a candidate other than originally reported.

Fourth, those States where strong cohesive control may not be effective and the delegations are likely to be split, if not on the first, at least on the succeeding ballots.

In the first group come South Dakota, North Dakota, Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska. The result of the vote in the Dakotas corresponded exactly with the preference as indicated in the poll of the Sun and New York Herald:

Wood first, Lowden second, in South Dakota; Johnson first, Wood second, in North Dakota.

In Illinois Lowden got the preference as foreshadowed in the poll. Harding, indicated as Illinois' second choice, refused to permit his name to be entered in the primary. Wood came in second on primary day.

MICHIGAN PREFERENCE.

In Michigan the preferences as indicated in the poll were: Wood, first; Lowden, second. In the month that intervened after the taking of the poll there was a rapid change of sentiment due to these facts chronologically stated — charges that Wood was spending excessive amounts in his campaign throughout the country, the conviction of Senator Newberry of having spent unlawful sums of money to obtain his election to the United States Senate, the demand of Senator Borah for statements from the various Presidential candidates as to what had been spent in their campaigns, followed by the introduction of a bill in Congress requiring such accountings in the future and lastly the whirlwind campaign of Senator Johnson and Senators Borah, Kenyon and others in Johnson's behalf.

Johnson won on primary day by a good margin with Wood second. Evidence grows that the ballots will be pretty well tied up on the first few roll calls, that a deadlock is likely to develop and that the chances of a "dark horse" claiming the prize are increasing day by day.

GEN. WOOD WAGES HIS CAMPAIGN IN UNIFORM.

COX OF OHIO ASSAILS THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN ADDRESS AT LOUISVILLE.

CINCINNATI, April 25.—Attired in uniform, Gen. Wood addressed an audience here last night in furtherance of his Presidential campaign in the Ohio Presidential preference primary to be held Tuesday.

"I shall be in uniform on all occasions throughout this campaign," he declared. "There is a disposition to point the finger of scorn at the uniform. The man who does it, or the man who apologizes for the uniform or for wearing it, is one who insults the memory of every dead American in France," he said.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 25.—Senator Lodge was the principal speaker at a gathering of 250 prominent writers and actors here last night. The gathering was headed by Owen Johnson, Richard Washburn Child and Porter Emerson Browne. Other speakers were former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana and Gov. Morrow of Kentucky. Job Hedges was toastmaster.

"The gathering is not to boom any particular candidate for the Republican nomination for President," said Mr. Child.

"The expenses of the junket are being paid by special Republican subscription and this comes through the national Republican committee."

LOUISVILLE, April 25.—Gov. Cox of Ohio, candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, in an address here last night charged Republican leaders with attempting to inspire racial feeling that it might be aroused against President Wilson and his administration.

"Republicans," he said, "are seeking support of every disloyal element in the country."

WIFE MARKET IS HIT BY H.C.L.

African Warrior is Now Forced to Pay Eight Cows for a Spouse.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, April 25.—Lord Dewar, who has just returned from Central Africa, in giving an account of his travels there said the increased cost of living in the district he visited was reflected in the higher price for wives paid by the natives. Whereas, a fine, sixteen-hands-high wife cost four spearheads in pre-war days, she now costs eight spearheads, Lord Dewar said. In the cattle districts the price of a wife is eight cows, instead of four.

CHICAGO HELLO GIRLS OUTRUN OVERALL FAD.

"BUNGALOW APRONS" AT LOW COST GIVEN COMPANY'S HEARTY APPROVAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 25.—Seven thousand Chicago telephone girls have seen the overalls fad and go it one better. They have evolved the "bungalow apron," meeting all requirements as to comfort, serviceability, style, total cost $1.25 to $2.50 and taking only an hour and a half to make.

Early this week every girl employed by the telephone company will be wearing her own homemade dress. The company lost no time getting on the movement and announced it would install a central laundry where the garments would be laundered free of charge. The company also is putting a sewing machine in every exchange where repairs can be made or new garments constructed at odd moments during the rest periods.

The outfit requires three yards of 36-inch material. Percale or cahco is to be used. The goods are folded twice, a notch is cut for the neck and sleeves, a hasty running through the machine and the job is done. The girls are enthusiastic over the plan. It will permit them to save considerable in clothing and they will be vastly more comfortable. It will also eliminate jealously as all the girls will be dressed alike.

The company proposes to buy the material in large quantities and let the girls have it at cost. The laundry service will be free. The idea originated in the company's splendid home for convalescent operators at Warrensville, Ill., where some of the girls made their own bungalow aprons. They were so becoming and comfortable that the idea was passed along to the big central office in the city and immediately found enthusiastic favor.

FOREIGN BRIEFS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BARCELONA, April 24.—A group of syndicalists last night fired at Police Inspector Louis Leon, who returned the fire. The inspector wounded and arrested the notorious syndicalist, Jose Garcia.

A young girl was wounded during the shooting.

BELGRADE, April 24.—A message from Subotitza, dated April 20, and given out semiofficially here, reports that on the evening of the 19th a revolt broke out among the inhabitants of Subotitza, in the Torenta district, which formerly belonged to Hungary. A crowd attacked the municipal police guards, killing two of them and seriously wounding five others. The fight was suppressed after several hours.

LONDON, April 24.—The American steamer Wayhut, which on Wednesday reported by wireless that she was sinking approximately 150 miles southwest of Brest, has arrived unassisted at that port, says a dispatch to Lloyd's.

BERLIN, April 23.—The electoral bill, which is to govern the elections for the first republican Parliament, to be held June 6, was passed by the National Assembly today.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

BY A. B. COCHRANE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HOUSTON, April 25.—The chief feature of the future market the past week was the sensational break of about $5 per bale in sympathy with the sweeping reaction in the stock market, and also due to the better weather reports from the eastern belt. The quick upturn came when it became known that Texas was still badly in need of rain and that the Atlantic States were expecting colder weather and more rain. Virtually all the losses were recovered. In New Orleans it was reported that much cotton sold short on Wednesday and was quickly covered on the following day. The buying by shorts had a good deal to do with the advance.

Texas is experiencing a prolonged dry spell. Rain has fallen in the Panhandle, but very little cotton is raised in that section. The crop is already several weeks late, which will render it unusually sensitive to climatic conditions. At the end of this week it is estimated that only 10 per cent of the Texas acreage has been planted. Many traders regard the backwardness of the Texas crop season as being serious. The forecast was for light rains over the State Sunday.

Liverpool cables have been disappointing the latter part of the week. The English markets reported spot sales low, Liverpool sales, however, were 2000 bales more than for this week last year.

The stock at Liverpool at the end of this week is 1,122,000 bales, compared with 521,000 bales a year ago.

The spot market has been unfavorably affected by the slump in futures. There was a considerable demand the first part of the week, but the decline checked the offerings from the country. Farmers seemed indisposed to relinquish their holdings under 42 cents. A great deal of the cotton arriving in Houston now is of very poor grade and buyers are finding it extremely difficult to fill orders for middling or grades above. There is a considerable accumulation of low-grade cotton on this market, which dealers are anxious to move. Houston sales for the week were 3559 bales. Net receipts at Houston thus far this season total 1,008,038 bales, which breaks all records for net receipts at this market.

Middling was quoted at the end of the week at 41.35, or 75 points below the high record of the season.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A general advance of discounts, which is likely in opinion of bankers, to assume wider dimensions, was the overshadowing event last week in the securities market.

The advance was more than local in its application and significance. Rates of the Federal Reserve Bank were raised at leading eastern, western and southern centers, and the movement was followed by further curtailment of industrial and commercial funds.

Abroad, recent stiffening of British and French bank rates was accompanied by broad intimations that new financial ventures would have to await more propitious times. The credit strain evidently extended to the Orient, as indicated by Japanese advices.

International exchange was more unsettled than at any period since the recovery of sterling to a point well above the $4 mark.

The extent to which loans are being reduced finds expression in the weakness of Liberty Bonds. Trustworthy accounts agree that much of the liquidation of these war flotations results from pressing needs of the small holders.

In the stock market the most surprising revelation, to disinterested observers, was the superficial character of the long account. It is generally conceded that the market is technically stronger for drastic liquidation of professional holdings.

WILBUR FORREST HOLDS UP TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA A MIRROR OF THE IOWA FARMER TOUR

BY WILBUR FORREST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—Pity the poor farmer whom fate has plucked from among us to arise at four in the morning, milk the cows, shiver his desolate way around the frozen barn yard feeding and watering the stock and performing the divers duties of winter chores.

New York's general conception of the Middle West corn belt farmer is perhaps this 4 o'clock individual in rough togs and a pull down cap digging hay out of the loft on wintry "4 a.m." and carrying the proverbial predawn kerosene lantern about the barnyard while mother and the girls get breakfast.

Pity the poor farmer if you want to but "by heck, he's no hick." New Yorkers who have visited Southern California this last winter know better. They have played in the land of sunshine, oranges and roses elbow to elbow with the Middle West farmer.

Something has changed the farmer.

SHIFT THE SCENE.

Shift the scene from the farmhouse kitchen and barnyard at 4 a.m., to the fashionable after dinner rooms of some of Southern California's popular winter hotels. The New Yorkers is there. He is ever present and will be so long as New York continues the disagreeable winter habit of dressing up in an icy overcoat and sterilizing the air with Atlantic winds.

A girl in a baby blue evening frock with slippers to match with a complexion that cannot be bought even in New York floats around the dance incloseure in the arms of a man. She wears diamonds in up-to-date platinum settings.

It isn't necessarily fashionable in these Southern California hotels to go through the formality of long acquaintance and a New Yorker or a Chicagoan can get a dance with the girl in baby blue.

THE GIRL FROM IOWA.

"Oh, we're from Iowa. Isn't it fine out here in California? I just love these new dances and the music. Come over and meet papa and mamma and sister," suggests the girl. And the New Yorker is conducted to a "ring-side" table where, by bitter experience he knows the "cover charge" runs about a dollar for father, a dollar for mother, a dollar for sister and a dollar for the girl in baby blue.

"Thought we'd come out to California this winter," said father, "the girls wanted to come. It's a pretty nice place, but by heck, it certainly costs a lot of money, but I guess it is worth doin' once. Jim writes that it's colder'n blitzen on the farm. Jim's our boy. He's running the place this winter while me and mother's the girls are seeing California."

"MA" ALL DOLLED UP.

Mother wears a gown that smacks of either Des Moines or Los Angeles department store windows. Sister's dress does not come so low in the neck as big sister's baby blue, but there is plenty of time for sister. Father ain't much for these new fangled ideas in dress. He wears the conventional black. His only semi-ostentatious play is an oversized lodge emblem which hangs from his watch chain. Finally the Iowa agriculturist magnate and his family repair upstairs to their parlor, two bedrooms and bath and another day in sunny California is done.

It isn't the Iowa farmer exclusively who has basked in the Southern California sun this winter. They have come in droves from Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois and other States west of the Great Lakes. Perhaps the more eastern agriculturists have taken "mother and the girls" to Florida this winter, but my observations have been concerned mainly with Southern California which vies with Florida as the millionaire winter mecca of the United States.

However, some one must set up

FARMERS WILL ERECT LARGE POWER PLANT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DOUGLAS, April 25.—[illegible] of the Sulphur Springs Valley is considering an Ambillow development proposition in the vicinity of Douglas of a 30,000-horsepower plant, at a cost approximating $2,000,000. It is proposed to eliminate the scores of gasoline pumping plants scattered over the valley between Douglas and Willcox by substituting electricity, at much less expense and with a greater degree of efficiency. Within the district are at least 100,000 acres that lack water in at comparatively shallow depth. All the land is good and the climate is such that almost any agricultural product can be grown, including cotton.

Already the district is a heavy producer of grains, alfalfa and cotton. The section has good railroad facilities, connecting lines between Douglas and Cochise, and the Southwestern and Southern Pacific respectively cross the country. The northern parts of the district, the proposed power plant would be drawn upon for mining purposes in the Chiricahua, Dragoon and other mining districts of southeastern Arizona.

ITALY'S STRIKE STILL SERIOUS.

Hope to Settle Walkout of the Agrarians Soon.

Peasants Resort to Crop Sabotage; Bloodshed.

Government Workers Idle All Over the Country.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, April 25.—The news of the industrial situation in North Italy continues to be extremely serious, although advices from official sources this morning say that the big strike of agricultural workers in the province of Novare, which began over a month ago in sympathy with the industrial movement, is expected soon to be settled.

This revolt of the peasants—for it is nothing less and already has been accompanied by bloodshed, is said to cause the Italian government more anxiety than all the industrial troubles.

Not only is the government greatly worried by the prospect of being unable to rely on the agricultural element, but also there has been sabotage of crops on a considerable scale and a large quantity of cattle has been allowed to die and it is feared that if the example spreads the effects on the food situation, already acute enough, will be dismastrous.

The industrial strike is reported now to include Piedmont, where the latest estimate places the number of strikers at 700,000 and to be spreading to Lombardy and Liguria. General strikes have been declared at Alexandria, Novia and Pisa. In the latter city and at Livorno the railroad workers have refused to allow the passage of trains of troops going to keep order in the Novare area or at Turin, where a general strike is still raging.

The Turin conflict, which is being waged over the much-vexed question of workmen's soviets, shows no sign of reaching a settlement.

A grave feature of the trouble is that State servants, the post and telegraph workers, are really idle almost all over the country, despite the fact that at Turin, for instance, they are supposed to have agreed to return to work. Consequently, mails and telegrams are at a standstill.

CONVICTED EX-PREMIER CAILLAUX SET FREE.

RELEASE ORDERED ON THEORY THAT SENTENCE HAD ALREADY BEEN SERVED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, April 24.—Joseph Caillaux, the former Premier, who on Thursday was convicted by the high court of commerce and correspondence with the enemy, has been set free. He arrived at his home in Paris this afternoon.

He was accompanied by his wife and several friends. He refused to make a statement, saying only that he would not be in Paris on May 1.

The release of M. Caillaux today was ordered on the theory that all his time since his arrest on January 14, 1918, had been spent in a cell, which would entitle him to a reduction of nine months from his sentence of thirty-six months, making his total prison terms twenty-seven months.

As early as 6 o'clock the gates of the sanatorium at Neuilly, where M. Caillaux had been confined, were besieged by a crowd of reporters and photographers. They were rewarded about 8:30 o'clock by a sight of the ex-Premier on the threshold of the villa, from which, pajama-clad and bareheaded, he waved a friendly hand toward the reporters.

At 10 o'clock, having donned a dark suit and wearing a soft chestnut-colored fedora, he walked in the grounds of the sanatorium, stopping sufficiently near the railings to allow the photographers to work their shutters.

By 12:30 o'clock all the legal formalities had been completed and M. Caillaux was set free. As he was entering an automobile with his wife, the ex-Premier thanked the reporters and said:

"I shall withdraw to my home in the Department of the Sarthe, leaving Paris in two or three days, after visiting my dentist."

Then, making a remark which was interpreted as a prediction of future public activities, he added:

"We shall meet again and then I shall give you opportunities of compensation for the interview I cannot give you today."

BUILDING FOR CITY AND COUNTY IS PLAN.

PUBLIC STRUCTURE FOR PHOENIX AND MARICOPA OFFICES TO COST $1,600,000.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, April 25.—Plans have been presented for the erection jointly by the county of Maricopa and the city of Phoenix of a public building to cost $1,600,000. The structure suggested is to be of six stories, with several courtrooms, a top-story jail and offices for the Sheriff and Chief of Police and with much room left for expansion.

It is proposed to turn the present City Hall and Courthouse grounds on Washington street into parks or to sell them for business uses. The latter plan would bring in much of the money needed for the building. The buildings used at present are declared absolutely inadequate. The Courthouse especially is overcrowded and the jails are unsanitary and filled to overflowing.

No objection appears to be known to the plan of a big joint building, save at Mesa, where the Chamber of Commerce has started a movement toward carving off a new county from the eastern end of Maricopa. For this reason, there is disinclination to join in the cost of a new Maricopa county Courthouse. The secession idea appears to be confined to Mesa. Tempe, half way between Phoenix and Mesa, has served notice that it prefers to be linked with Phoenix.

Officials in Phoenix state that it would be good financial policy to allow the split, for Phoenix pays three-fifths of the county taxes and thus has to help maintain the peace and support the road costs of the Mesa district, stretching forty miles beyond, toward Florence or Superior and to the Roosevelt Dam.

[Number seven of a series of actual experiences—"If a Trust Company Had Served"]

They Trusted the Man

THE widow and daughter of Mr. S., who died intestate, were without business experience. They placed the settlement of his estate in the hands of a man whom they trusted. He took full charge of their affairs.

When the estate was settled, this man induced the widow and daughter to leave their share in his hands for investment. For a number of years they received 6% interest regularly. Finally the payments became irregular and then ceased altogether. Investigation disclosed that the man whom they had trusted had invested all their funds, together with funds of other women, in certain land speculations.

These speculations turned out badly and the man filed a petition in bankruptcy.

The two women finally received about 1% of the amount they originally left with their well-meaning friend for investment.

If Mr. S. had appointed a reliable Trust Company to manage his estate, his money would not have been used for speculation. Has your wife the proper business training to wisely handle your estate? Protect those you will leave by making your Will now and appointing the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank Executor of your estate.

THE DISCOVERY OF "VITAMINES"

The study of beriberi and pellagra led to the discovery of a group of food essentials known as "vitamines." They are necessary to normal nutrition and to normal growth. They are found in the whole wheat grain. In making Shredded Wheat Biscuit all the vitamines are retained—all the elements that are needed for building a perfect body. Two of these little loaves of baked whole wheat with milk or cream (or hot water) make a nourishing, satisfying meal for a few cents.

MERRITT SEES HOOVER VICTOR.

Candidate's Manager Claims State by 60,000.

Asserts Survey Shows South Solid for Ticket.

Declares Johnson "Finished" if He Loses May 4.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Following a comprehensive survey of conditions throughout California as reported from practically every county north and south, Ralph L. Merritt, manager for the Hoover ticket of delegates for the primary elections May 4, said today that the Hoover ticket would carry the election by at least 60,000 votes.

"Now that the public has had an opportunity of analyzing the Johnson claims touching Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska, the hollowness of the Johnson 'victories' is apparent. Eastern political observers are agreeing during the past week that the so-called Detroit and Michigan victories have proved boomerangs to Johnson. The Ford following in Detroit and the Thompson pro-German and radical groups which gave Johnson his vote in Chicago, have left a bad taste in the mouth of the American people.

"It is also obvious that Johnson has carefully picked a few Western and Middle Western States to create a favorable impression on the eye of the California primaries, spending huge sums of money to secure sufficient votes to justify publicity that may be twisted to his advantage.

"Johnson's fight is in California. Unless he wins this State he is finished as a Presidential possibility. With the southern part of the State solidly aligned behind Hoover, and with the rank and file of labor refusing to follow the lead of political labor leaders, most of them holding State jobs, a serious blow has been struck at Johnson here.

JOHNSONITES ADMIT DANGER.

"Johnson leaders are privately admitting the danger that faces them in the south. The Southern California Hoover Club reports that the Hoover ticket will carry every county south of the Tehachepi, with the possible exception of San Bernardino.

"While we are willing to admit that in some parts of the north we have been unable to perfect as effective an organization as we could want, the south will roll up a sufficiently large majority to neutralize northern spots and give us a safe 60,000 lead.

"The issue that has met with the surest response with the California public has been a decrease in the cost of living and the passing of the peace treaty, particularly in the south, where the voters want a League of Nations as advocated by the leaders of the Republican party.

"Again, there is a spirit of discontent with the control of the old parties by professional politicians. The people are getting tired of that. They look to Hoover as the type of sound, practical, efficient administrator the country needs at this very critical period of world readjustment.

"The important thing now is to see that every Hoover supporter not only himself or herself, goes to the polls and votes a straight Hoover ticket May 4, but to see to it that every member of his or her family, every neighbor and friend, does likewise."

FIND THEFT MOTIVE IN HATCHET MURDER.

AUTHORITIES BELIEVE EIGHT PERSONS SLAIN IN SEARCH FOR MONEY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TURTLE LAKE (N. D.) April 25.— Several clews were discovered today by authorities investigating the deaths of eight persons, all believed to have been murdered, whose bodies were found on the Wolf farm near here yesterday. Jacob Wolf, his wife, their five daughters and Jake Hofer, thirteen years old, hired boy, were the victims.

A shotgun was found in a swamp one mile north of the Wolf farm. Footprints in the mud indicated a man had approached and thrown the gun into the water.

Another clew was a pair of blood-soaked overalls found in the kitchen. Yesterday a hatchet, with which it is believed several of the victims were killed, was found in the kitchen.

At the coroner's inquest today it was brought out that some of those killed were murdered with the hatchet and the others shot.

John Brekken, a farmer, testified that he had seen two suspicious looking men walking rapidly away from the direction of the farm shortly after noon Thursday. The crime is believed to have been committed either Thursday or Friday.

Wolf's property is believed to be worth between $25,000 and $30,000. He had often told friends he kept a large amount of money in a small safe at home and the authorities are considering the possibility of theft as a motive for the crime.

importance to the southward drive of Gen. Angel Flores's revolutionary forces through the State of Sinaloa, south of Sonora. They also saw no probability of an early attack in force by the Federal forces on the revolutionary forces in Sonora itself.

This delay, it was said, would be dangerous not only because of the size of the force at hand, but because of the increased activities of Villa along the government's exposed lines of communication.

Flores, who has occupied Culiacan, is reported to be some distance south on his way to the State of Nayarit. His movement has been facilitated by the use of motor trucks which he was said to have used a few days ago to rout a small cavalry detachment sent to check his.

Further delay in the execution of the government's plan to send forces northward through Nayarit was seen in the report that the railroad had been cut in the State of Jalisco. It was not expected this would do more than slow up the Federal movement.

Reports of defections by Federal groups at widely separated points, some of which have been conceded by the Mexico City authorities, have been supplemented by claims of Gen. Salvador Alvarado, Sonora agent here, that many leaders who have been in revolt for years have joined the rebel cause. Notable among them was Genevevo de la O one of the unconquerred Zapatista group, who was said to have furnished the escort which enabled Gen. Benjamin Hill to escape from Mexico City about the time Gen. Obregon disappeared from the capital. A skirmish occurred at Contreras, a suburb of Mexico City, while Hill was being passed through the lines, and was followed, it was said, by an attack by De la O's forces on Tialpam, another suburb. The rebels overran the place, according to advices here, looted a few houses, and retreated into the hills about Ajusco, the old volcano that overlooks the capital.

A new revolt in Southern Vera Cruz also was mentioned. Rebels there had cut the railroad from the north to the Isthmus of Tehauntepec.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT BLAMES ORIENTALS FOR RECENT DISTURBANCES.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

VLADIVOSTOK, April 20.—(Delayed.) A formal protest to the Allied powers against recent actions by the Japanese military forces is being prepared for the Inter-Allied Railway board and will be taken up at tomorrow's session of that body.

The board received a reply to resolutions alleging violations of the inter-Allied agreements passed by it on April 17, the Japanese member, M. Matsudaira, presented a statement from Gen. Oi, commander of the Japanese forces in eastern Siberia. "The Inter-Allied railway agreement should be executed in full," the statement says. "I declare that the military forces guarding the railroad are making adequate efforts to protect the railway, as well as the employees thereon."

The provisional government in its reply to the resolutions, says it recognizes the Allied agreements and blames Japan for recent difficulties.

MODERN METHUSELAH WANTS HIS SCHNAPPS.

CHICAGOAN 108 YEARS OLD SAYS NO USE LIVING IN THESE THIRSTY TIMES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 25.—"The first hundred years were alright but when this prohibition thing came in, it upset everything. What's the use living if I can't have my beer and schnapps?" John Dionysus, who is 108 years of age and still going strong, thus relieved his overcharged mind today when a newspaper photographer sought to get his picture.

"I have managed to be healthy this long and I drank it every day," he continued. "What right have these prohibitionists to come along and deprive us of our schnapps and beer? What else is there for me in the future?"

"Father likes his beer," said his son, who is 56 years old, and a mere stripling. "A few years ago he left an old folks' home because they were limiting his beer ration."

"No, damn it, I don't want my picture in the paper," exploded the fiery old man. "What's the use of living if I can't have beer?"

Dionysus came from Trier, Germany, 42 years ago. The old man's wife died when the son was six years old. His age is fully verified.

REDUCTION OF TAXES MOST POPULAR ISSUE.

EXPRESSIONS FROM ELECTORATE ON BONUS BILL INDICATES ECONOMY DEMAND.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Increasing evidence that the popular issue is reduction of taxation and strict economy in governmental expenses is seen in thousands of telegrams and letters pouring into members of Congress.

This expression of the electorate has occasioned bitter agitation over bonus legislation, which the protestants declare can mean but one thing—a continuance of high taxes, and high living costs. Many of the protestants are active in the American Legion.

While the opposition to bonuses exists the demand for it, according to members of Congress, facing elections, is greater than the appeal for economy. One member of the ways and means committee, who has steadfastly opposed the expenditure of $2,000,000,000 for bonusus said that he had decided to support such legislation for the reason that a propaganda had been working which was affecting the ex-service men, making them dissatisfied with their government.

Indications are today that a bonus bill, which will raise the money by four plans, will be reported to the House late this week and will be forced through under a rule early in May. The money will be raised by a final retail sales tax of 1 per cent. on commodities and real estate transfers; a tax on stock exchange transfers, a heavy tax on tobacco and an increase in the income surtaxes.

SUFFRAGIST LEADERS SEE EARLY VICTORY.

AMENDMENT RATIFICATION SOON BY AT LEAST TWO STATES PREDICTED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 25. — Suffragist leaders predict the ratification of the national amendment within three months by at least two and possibly all five of the States of Delaware, Louisiana, North Carolina, Connecticut and Vermont.

Much of the antagonism displayed by members of the Delaware Legislature which will reconvene May 5 has faded away in the face of the campaign carried on by suffrage workers and political leaders in behalf of ratification. The situation now is reversed and the suffrage forces are urging an early vote while the antis are fighting for delay.

Louisiana, where the Legislature meets in regular session May 10, may race with Delaware for the honor of being the thirty-sixth State to ratify.

A preliminary poll taken by the National Woman's party of the North Carolina Legislature, which will convene in special session in July, was made public today and bears out its prediction that the amendment will be ratified.

"CARRANZA'S A CROOK," CALLES.

Sonora General Declares Administration Corrupt.

Asserts Mexican President Winks at Dishonesty.

Military Said to Have Used "Utmost Brutality."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AGUA PRIETA (Son.) April 25.—The Carranza administration is corrupt and officials unpopular with Carranza, but elected by popular vote, have been ousted by the military in several States who have practiced the utmost brutality, according to charges made here by Gen. P. Elias Calles, commander of the revolutionary forces of Sonora, in a statement here yesterday.

Gen. Calles until recently was Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor in the Carranza Cabinet. In the statement he attacked the foreign policy of Carranza, his late decisions regarding oil lands of Mexico, and in many other ways attacked the Carranza regime.

Shippers on Mexican railroads are forced to "tip" agents and employees of the roads from 75 to 100 pesos a car to obtain transportation for their products, Calles said, and without "tipping" would not receive cars.

Carranza staged a "theatrical reception" for the Japanese marines of the cruiser Yakumo when they visited Mexico City recently, according to Gen. Calles, and compelled employees of the Federal government and city administration to take part under penalty of discharge.

"Carranza pretended to show by this masquerade," said the statement, "that his government counted upon the support of the nation of the Far East. This act of the government has been repudiated by all good Mexicans as they have repudiated the false international policy of Carranza."

Calles attacked Carranza for what he termed "unheard-of crimes committed at Yucatan in order to destroy all the revolutionary tasks started by Gen. Salvador Alvarado and to subjugate all the political rights of the citizens of the State."

FORCE AND FEAR USED.

Opinions of the people were silenced by force and fear, according to the statement, which continued: "In Yucatan the bailiffs of Carranza, with Col. Zamarripa at their head, murdered the civilian authorities of some towns; burned, after plundering, the stores of Socialist corporations; burned the offices of the Socialist party in the city of Merida, going so far in their barbarism that they whipped more than 200 defenseless women whom they personally assembled at a public park."

"About eight months ago," the statement also said, "Carranza summoned me to the capital under pretense of giving me the post in his Cabinet of Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor, with the view of taking me out of Sonora and having me close to him with the purpose of making me his accomplice and his instrument for making a mockery of the public vote.

"At Queretaro, in a conference with Carranza himself at which Gen. Francisco Murguia was a witness, he verbally suggested to me more or less as follows:

"'As you well comprehend, Gen. Pablo Gonzales is not a suitable candidate for the Presidency and Gen. Obregon neither can be thought about for his attacks against us, but tomorrow we will meet Luis Cabrera and Aguirre Berlanga and will have a conference in which we will resolve the situation, determining who will be the candidate for the Presidency of the republic that the government is going to impose by any means.'"

CALLES REPUDIATES PLAN.

Calles said he called on Carranza the next day and said he would not subscribe to the plan and was not in accord with the electoral proceedings. He said he told Carranza he was for Gen. Obregon and warned the Mexican President of the danger of pursuing the alleged policy. Calles's statement said he was not present at the meeting with Cabrera and Berlanga but, two days later on the Presidential train, the candidacy of Ignacio Bonillas was announced.

Concerning alleged dishonesty in the Mexican government, he said: "During my short stay as a member of the Carranza Cabinet I had the best opportunity to persuade myself of the immorality of government proceedings and how a corrupt coterie labors with such an unscrupulous man, headed by his chief of staff, Gen. Juan Barragan.

"Right there in the chief of staff's office everything is a matter of speculation. They sell government positions and concessions of all kinds and robberies of the public funds are authorized; they speculate with the bonds of officers and chiefs of the army and even with the pensions of widows and orphans of soldiers of the revolution which are subject to a charge of a commission by the authorized Barragan."

Calles charged that "they proportionately divide all moneys produced by any dirty business."

Carranza violated the votes of the people of four States, he said, and imposed upon them military Governors of his own selection to replace Governors elected by the people.

The revolution, Gen. Calles said, was "nothing less than the energetic manifestation of protest and that no man shall impose such tyranny and feudal proceedings upon the nation."

MAY ENTER HUNT AS SENATORIAL ASPIRANT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON, April 25.—In connection with the determination of the labor unions to enter politics this fall, there are some interesting developments. Possibly the most important is the announcement that former Gov. Hunt is to be entered at the primaries as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, against Mark Smith. This is to be done whether Hunt is or is not confirmed as Minister to Siam and entirely without asking him about it. This course is considered necessary in considering the fact that no other candidate can be found strong enough to give Smith a race—and Smith has been placed upon the black books of the unions. There appears a rising doubt whether Hunt is to be confirmed. Evidence is said to have been sent to Washington that shows he contributed to the funds of the Bisbee strikers, before or at the time of the deportation.

Possibly even more interesting is the report that Mrs. Rosa McKay of Miami is to be put forward as the radical candidate in opposition to Carl Hayden for the Congressional nomination. Mrs. McKay was in Bisbee at the time of the deportation and thereafter visited the deportees and offered sympathy. She then was a member of the legislature from Cochise county. She now is a member from Gila county. At all times she has supported any labor legislation that has come up.

Judge Pattee of Tucson appears distasteful to the labor element, though indorsed by the State Bar Association. Just now he is handling the deportation trials at Tombstone, a rather difficult position for a jurist who is going before the fall primaries. For the place that is to be vacated by Justice Cunningham on the Supreme bench there is labor suggestion of Judge John J. Sweeney of Prescott, former legal adviser of the legislative house.

Gerard would Arm Armenians.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Expressing satisfaction at the action of the San Remo conference of Allied Premiers in recognizing the independence of the Armenians, James W. Gerard, chairman of the American Committee for the Independence of Armenia, said: "We are asking now for sufficient arms from the United States to equip an army of 50,000 Armenians."

SACS DROP TWO TO THE TIGERS.

Sabbath Specialty Swings the Series Vernon Way.

Wheezer Dell Too Strong for Enemy in Afternoon.

Bill Essick Slants at Both Games from Grandstand.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

It wasn't exactly overall day for the Tigers, but they put it all over Sacramento, 14-3 and 5-1.

Bill Essick athletes specialize in winning games at both ends of the Sabbath. They evened up the series in the sunrise session, and post-meridian pitching by Wheezer Dell tucked it away for safe keeping.

In order to make the series safe for Vernon it was necessary to beat Ken Penner in the afternoon, which isn't much of a trick in these parts. The Tigers attended to this in the third inning and continued to make it more binding from time to time. J. Mitchell teased a walk out of Penner in the third, while Chadbourne and Edington, respectively, touched off a double and a triple for two runs.

GORGEOUS TRIPLE.

High singled infield in the fourth. DeVormer then knocked a gorgeous triple to right. When the ball was brought back, Penner looked it over to see if it was fit to use any more. He decided that it was, and threw it to Dell, who poked out a sacrifice fly to Eldred, scoring DeVormer. This was refreshing for DeVormer, who had been held at third base so much Saturday that he got sick of the place. Following a couple of hits and a brace of outs, Fisher and Smith found themselves on third and first in the order named. They then stole a flock of two bases between themselves. Bob beating McGaffigan's return of Cady's rather belated pez.

Sacramento, and Penner in particular, was most dangerous in the eighth. Cady opened with a single and scored on a triple by Penner. McGaffigan flied to Edington, and Stumpy shot to DeVormer, nailing Penner, who was endeavoring to score. Stumpy shot to DeVormer, Penner as he came in. The latter, on picking himself up, almost decided to slam Al in the mush, but after figuring what might happen to his own mug, if mushing started in earnest, decided he was too proud to fight, except behind the clubhouse, and everybody was too busy to bring the clubhouse in. Toppling Mr. Penner over on the back of his neck appeared to be unavoidable, as he came in standing straight up like a giraffe. The proper way to come home is with a low, under-slung slide.

SCRAPPY BUNCH.

Sacramento, for a team that never actually fights, has the best bench of scrappers seen here in a long time. For instance, there was Forrest Cady who, under the impression that the bean ball was being flung at his head the other day, shouldered his bat and marched out to tell Willie Mitchell a few things. From Cady's general department with the bat everybody expected to see a few left-handed brains scattered over the yard. But instead of doing that, Cady merely enriched Wee Willie's brains by giving him a piece of his mind. This imaginary beating up of Vernon players by Sacramento athletes is brutal, and should be stopped.

Everything less was mainly lovely yesterday. The umpires and players had little difficulty controlling each other, although there were a few well-modulated boos directed at the lumps by the crowd. There is little doubt that Messrs. Byron and Eason know their business. They are always on the job dusting off the plate, when not dusting ball players out of the park. They keep the plate cleaner than any pair of umps who ever wielded a whisk-broom between them in these parts. Lord Byron wears the whisk-broom in his pocket, while Mr. Eason throws it on the ground. This would seem to indicate that Byron is the more finished umpire of the two. There is talk of taking up a collection to buy him a pocket vaccum cleaner, and in that way lessen his work.

TOUGH ON HIM.

Everything went wrong for J. De Vitalis in his first Coast League appearance. In the first inning he found himself bounded by errors, bad hops and base hits. This was at Vernon in the morning. Four runs counted on him in the first round, with the result that Rodgers was forced to use two more pitchers. Having become familiar with the left-handed stuff from almost constant practice earlier in the week, the Tigers kept right along scoring on Fittery and Horwedge, who was followed by Kuntz, as a pinch-hitter. Fred Schellenback went wrong in the fourth, so they sent for Sam Rose to keep the Tippers from spreading. This was Sam's initial appearance, and his first Coast League out of the season was to throw a strike. Aside from a smudge of walks, his performance was excellent and free from runs.

Bill Essick viewed both combats from the stand, remaining set down as the president had ordered. Mr. Essick hopes that if he is ever set down again for four days the league president will see that he is supplied with a piano stool. Bill sat on a piano stool all winter, and it fits him better than a folding chair. When, at the conclusion of the game, Bill arose from his seat, he was seen to list heavily to port, due to the shifting of part of his cargo to the

HANEY'S WILD THROW GIVES DUCKS VICTORY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, April 25.—Haney's wild throw to first with the score tied, the bases full, and two out, let Portland win today's game over Los Angeles in the ninth, 3 to 1. Up to this time the game had been a pitchers' battle between Aldridge and Poison, Los Angeles getting only two hits and the Beavers three. Cox's second hit of the game and two passes filled the bases in the ninth. Baker, batting for Kingdon, grounded to Haney, catching Schaller at the plate. Spranger hit to Haney, who threw wide to first, and the game was over. Nearly 13,000 people witnessed the contest. The score:

Smith's Handicap is Too Much for Henderson.

Dr. Paul Hunter of the Midwick Country Club trimmed George C. Thomas, Jr., of the Los Angeles Country Club unmercifully in the finals of the Annandale invitation golf tourney yesterday. The match, scheduled to go thirty-six holes, ended on the eighth green of the second eighteen with the score 11 and 10 in Hunter's favor.

Thomas failed to win a hole in the morning round, and Hunter was 10 up when it ended. The latter shot 75, one over par, to Thomas's 85. Hunter made three birdies—on the third, eleventh and twelfth holes. On eight separate occasions it took Thomas three putts to sink his ball after getting on the green.

Starting out in the afternoon Hunter won the first hole, only to lose the second, third and fourth, (the only ones Thomas won throughout the day,) the fifth was halved, and Hunter won the sixth, seventh and eighth and the match. The latter's approach sh

CANADA NOW IN HOCKEY FINALS.

Defeats United States 2 to 0 in Tough Game.

To Meet the Swedes, Who Sink France 4 to 0.

Americans Unable to Penetrate Canucks' Defense.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ANTWERP, April 25.—Canada defeated the United States 2 to 0 in a hard-fought hockey game tonight, and tomorrow will meet Sweden in the finals for the Olympic meet.

It was not until the second half that the Canadians were able to score against the Americans, who strove vainly all through the game to penetrate Canada's defense. It was lightning hockey throughout, but the Americans were outplayed. The Canadians expect an easy victory tomorrow.

Canada's forwards, Halliday, Frederickson and Goodwin, frequently took the puck from the Americans by lightning-like tactics, only to lose it again a second later to Conroy, Drury or Gobeen.

The Ice Palace was packed with about an equal division of rooters for the teams. Many American officers were among the spectators.

Canada won the toss and started immediately took the offensive. Bonnev of Pittsburgh stopped the puck at the goals twice in the first two minutes of play. Gobeen worked hard for a goal a moment later only to from then on during the first half was a nip-and-tuck exhibition of fast work and cleverness of the players of both teams bringing the spectators to their feet every minute. Cormick, American right wing, worked hard several times for a long drive from the center of the rink, but each time his try was blocked.

SWEDES CRUSH FRENCH.

ANTWERP, April 25.—The Swedish hockey team defeated the French team in the Olympian hockey competition here today, 4 to 0.

The Swedes, by their victory, won the right to compete in the finals. The game was the hardest-fought and most evenly matched one played.

The Swedes were unable to score in the first fifteen minutes of play, but immediately thereafter made two goals in rapid succession. This was the same story in the second half, the Swedes scoring the other two goals in the last few minutes of play.

One of the French players had a long black beard, but was not by his feet, as was also another Frenchman who was middle-aged and bald-headed.

CRISIS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Fate of Republican Delegates Under Way.

Fortnight to See Selection of Aspirants.

Discussion of a Possible Dark Horse at Chicago.

[BY E. O. PHILLIPS.
EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 25.—Republican political candidates are at the height of the campaign for delegates to the Chicago convention. This week and the next, by all rules of politics, may see any of the active aspirants for presidential nomination eliminated.

As a result of the number of delegates, State and district conventions to be held within the next two weeks would prepare the way for a much-discussed possibility—a dark horse at Chicago in June. It is quite possible some one of the leading candidates will make a decisive showing in the election of the 344 delegates as to make the most formidable contender, according to restrict the convention to one of the present contestants.

Nearly 140 delegates will be elected all but thirteen—those from Ohio, on Tuesday. Ohio, Indiana and Massachusetts go to the primaries. Washington, Nebraska and Arkansas will elect at conventions.

Ohio has more at stake than any other candidate. He is in direct contest with Senator Johnson for delegates against New Jersey delegates Harding and he are also opposed by 8 out for Ohio's forty-four. In Massachusetts it is a contest between Gen. Wood, Senator Lodge and all of the thirty-five. The determination of the State organization to have a delegation uninstructed but presumably for Gov. Calvin Coolidge Washington is conceded to Senator Poindexter as his favorite son. Senator Borah and probably for Senator Johnson and Arkansas to Gen. Leonard Wood. Gen. Wood, however, will develop strength in delegations.

DEMOCRATS IN CALIFORNIA.

Next week will be even more politically, with Johnson and Hiram Johnson fighting to the death for delegates, with one of them in the race and perhaps permanently with Indiana staging a dead-to-the-last-man-for-all. All of the week will spend this week in spectacular campaign for votes, but fought out in battle-ground.

The first ended was bigger for Hiram Johnson. He went to Nebraska with Gen. Wood, got fourteen of the sixty-four votes, but he didn't give a chance to anybody else in Montana named Nevada, a total of twenty-eight delegates Johnson captured all of the twenty-six votes. He took two in Nebraska and one in Tennessee.

ARKANSAS ROW.

Arkansas elected six uninstructed delegates to Wood, and Kansas has completed their delegation with two and four uninstructed delegates each. The next row started with a set of uninstructed delegates from the Rock district.

Much of the condition of affairs there are about to go to a State, as submitted by correspondent of The Times, follow:

Tuesday—Ohio, Indiana and Massachusetts go to the primaries. Washington, Nebraska and Arkansas will elect at conventions.

YOU WANT MORE MONEY.
It's some of your youth and that extra hour or two each day—in recreation. Sure, it's recreation to make pleasant fire or two-minute visits on a different line of merchandise than the one you now call on. You get a new viewpoint of business, you're in a different atmosphere. The change benefits the big commission getter and makes your salary what you want it—no limit to the limit you set for yourself. One man's side line commissions one week over $400; everything furnished free to work with—we even sign him bail to sell it; you learn that in 10 minutes. Write or you'll at least lose the satisfaction of knowing that you have not passed up a big spare time money maker without investigation. Box 1, Times Annex, Los Angeles.

DEMAND FOR OUIJA BOARDS IN JOLIET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JOLIET (Ill.) April 25.—Market quotations on ouija boards soared yesterday as the $25,000 slander suit involving two Lockport women, Mrs. Clara Yost and Mrs. Lydia Walter, with a ouija board as its prophetic background moved nearer to completion.

Three months ago, when William McCabe, a State representative and attorney for Mrs. Walter, who is asking the $25,000 damages as compensation for her good reputation which she accuses Mrs. Yost of having injured, filed his praecope in the Circuit Court, Lockport divided against itself; factionalism even invaded behind the well-guarded doors of the Royal Neighbors Lodge of which both women are members. Yesterday McCabe filed his declaration which clothes with legal words and phrases Mrs. Walter's complaint.

Last November the Yost home was robbed of a quantity of groceries which included several pounds of raisins. Mrs. Yost asked an ouija board who stole her raisins, sugar, etc., and the ouija board is alleged to have placed the burden of guilt on the Walter family. Then Mrs. Walter filed suit.

TAFT'S VIEW OF JOHNSON

Former President Sees Senator Assailed by Radical Element.

BY WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DALLAS, April 25.—The strength of Senator Johnson in centers where the pro-Germans, the Sinn Feiners, the radical labor men, nonpartisan leaguers and Socialists are strong, while it may not frighten leaders of the Republican party, because they still regard Johnson's nomination as impossible, does interest them. It has the effect to heighten their concern in the California fight between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Hoover. They would be much pleased if Mr. Hoover were to beat Mr. Johnson in California. This is because it would greatly minimize the latter's influence in regard to the party platform and the danger to the Republican ticket which his possible bolting the Republican ticket and running as an independent candidate would create. It would show that he does not control California as he has in the past. It would prove that his strength now comes largely from elements that would not support any candidate but himself on the Republican ticket and that his independent candidacy, at the head of a pro-German, Sinn Feiner and Laborite Nonpartisan League ticket would weaken not the Republians but the Democrats.

Indeed, this might follow even though he were to "nose in" ahead of Mr. Hoover in the California primaries. He has on his ticket of delegates many leading regular Republicans who merely went on the ticket agreeing to support Mr. Johnson on the first ballot with the fond but doubtful hope that he would thus be induced to support the national ticket though defeated, as these regular Republican gentlemen confidently counted he would be. It is difficult to imagine Mr. Johnson supporting in good faith a Republican nominee on a Republican platform approving the League of Nations with the Lodge reservations.

ELECTORATE PECULIAR.

The California electorate is a peculiar one. The resources of the State, the delights of the climate, the plenty and comfort which prevail withal have created an optimism and a political ideal'sm which manifest themselves at times in a surprising way. Mr. Johnson has often been the beneficiary of this marked trait of the voters of the Golden Gate. His attitude in regard to the treaty, however, has shocked his former supporters of this class. Especially is this true of the women, who have learned their power in California, who know how to use it, and are enthusiastic in its exercise.

For them, Mr. Hoover, who is to them the real American genius of the war, and with whom in the war campaign they worked successfully in conscious co-operation, has been substituted for Senator Johnson as their ideal leader. Mr. Johnson's championship of the people as against the corporations has ceased to hold them as Hoover's advocacy of the League of Nations, which they deem only practical method of war, makes them adverse cause.

HAS ONLY REMOTE

Mr. Johnson's people has heretofore been in California and some of the circles in San Francisco has against him, but Angeles Times, which has been against him, but Angeles Express, which before been his supporter, the railroad company's representative operating revenues, its operating expenses of approximately $640,000 in addition of almost $60,000. In addition to his income from the leased lines to the Railroad Administration, it shows revenue from invested securities of $307,144.24 gross income to more than $1,000,000, this it paid interest on debt, amounting to $3,1 and $323,000 more on unfunded leaving a net income of $ the greater portion of which as indicated, to the profit account, after a sinking fund of $1,050 had been taken care of either regular or preferred stock publican votes. Mr. doubtless make a vigorous paign and arouse some it in all parts of California such a campaign could upon the enthusiasm of only his supporters but opponents as well. The comes from California familiar with the political experiences that Mr. Johnson may be indeed the instrument although it is hard for the State to credit it.

ONLY JOHNSON

The effect of all circumstances upon Mr. Hoover for the Presidency is to clothe his candidacy regularity which before have. It parison at once between son's regularity and in this regard the record shows no real at all. It is only Johnson has used the party machine for his purpose—he has been punished it when it refused now Mr. Hoover does Mr. Johnson has lost to do this in California by himself to the great of the Republican party. In spite of the political slip of 1911 and injury to the Republican the result, as Mr. Johnson tions of it have done, considered with such by orthodox Republicans his candidacy for the nomination first was because it is not to say that he will be nominated, but it is that events are pushing ward as a serious more than could have anticipated.

THOUGHT HE COULD SING; NOW KNOWS IT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—With a dollar as his entire capital, Lucius Metz, ex-soldier and a hopeful but inexperienced singer, came here several weeks ago from Spokane to learn fro some recognized musical authority if his voice was worth clutivating. He had no friend or acquaintance here, and no means for earning a living. When he glanced at a restaurant menu with its post-war prices he hustled for a job and found it in a telegraph office as a messenger.

Up to yesterday this musical adventurer's confidence in himself had been repaid in the form of two contracts, one with a theatrical manager for three years, with a salary ranging from $150 to $400 weekly, and the other for $1200 a year in a church choir. More income has been offered to him, but he is too busy to accept because he is hard at work learning to sing.

The first message Metz carried from the telegraph office led him to the Metropolitan Operahouse, where a woman singer whom he asked for the name of a vocal teacher rebuffed him. At any rate, she moved away as if annoyed, and some one gently pushed him to the street.

When Metz was released from the army he stopped for a night here and he had attended a performance of "Carmen" at the Metropolitan Operahouse, where he heard Marie Sundelius sing Micaela. He wrote to her asking to be directed to the best vocal teacher in New York. Miss Sundelius gave the name of an instructor approved by the profession, who asked that his name be withheld. The instructor said:

"I found that Metz had a voice of unusual, appealing quality and deep feeling, which may be best described as a rare natural gift. He is a tenor, with a range and volume that caused some who heard his trial efforts to mistake his voice for that of a baritone. His natural ability gives every indication of a promising career."

CAR DEFICIT IS MOUNTING FAST.

Company Now has Nearly a Million Dollars Chalked up to Loss Account.

The Los Angeles Railway lost $366,802.03 in 1919, although its revenue from railway operation was $7,236,-550.03, it was revealed by a financial report of the company issued yesterday by the State Railroad Commission.

The company now has a deficit of $937,845.37, which resulted from five items. In 1918 a loss of $368,999.80 was sustained, and last year another deficit of $366,830.03 was chalked up on operations, while miscellaneous additions and deductions, together with appropriations to the reserve, made up the remainder of the deficit.

While the company took in $7,236,550.03 last year it paid out for operating expenses $6,097,775.56. The capital stock of the company is $20,000,000, the funded debt amounting to $18,753,000. The company now operates 184.5 miles of street railway lines within the city limits.

MORTGAGE IS BURNED.

Presbyterian Moderator Hits Pessimist in Church Address.

Following a strong address, entitled "Batteries Recharged," by Dr. John Willis Baer, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, the mortgage of the First Presbyterian Church of this city was burned yesterday at 11 a.m. in the presence of an unusually large Sunday-morning congregation.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the church, delivered the dedicatory address after the board of trustees had taken their seats at the front of the church. W. E. Howard, president of the board, burned the mortgage. The debt, which had been on the church for twenty-two years, was paid off last November in a two-weeks' drive, $14,000 in cash being raised.

In his address, Dr. Baer talked on world problems as seen by the pessimists, and declared that the outlook is not at all dark, but that it largely depends upon the individual and the practice of the golden rule.

Form "Guild of Sensible Shoppers" and Plan Issuance of Fair Price List.

BY MYRA NYE.

Groan! Groan! For a price make moan.
Club women are coming to town.
Some for sports,
Some for silk,
And some for gingham gown.

And they are coming en bloc to wage an anti-extravagance campaign, against the old enemy who comes with a new name, excessive expense of existing. They come as "The Guild of Sensible Shoppers." They are concerned chiefly with feminine wearing apparel. The Friday Morning Club, Ebell Club, Badger, Wa-Wan, on down the long list of some hundred odd women's clubs in Los Angeles, all are hearing the plan presented from their platforms. They have arrived at the fixed determination to take the ice out of price and bring it down to a warm, companionable, livable level.

Mrs. Boyle Workman is chairman of the committee. It is not altogether a club woman's movement. Mrs. Granville MacGowan represents the society women who, paradoxical as it may seem, include some of the most sensible shoppers in the city. Mrs. Theodore Roberts represents the stars, as well as the "Milky Way" of the cinema world. Mrs. O. P. Clark is secretary, and Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, Mrs. O. M. Souden and Mrs. Frances N. Noel complete the committee.

NO BOYCOTT.

"We plan to fix a maximum price," said Mrs. Workman at the last Friday Morning Club meeting when the whole day was given up to discussion of ways and means to combat the high enemy. We will begin with party gowns, for instance, with the maximum price $150 to $250, the latter for the more elaborate dinner gowns. If we keep that price low, it will lower the price of all simpler gowns on down the scale. We will not boycott. We have the co-operation of the merchants. They will help the committee fix the scale of prices."

The committee will meet tomorrow to start fixing a scale of prices. Then the merchants will be asked to clear their shelves and offer whatever bargains they wish, all women being encouraged to take advantage of the bargains. Then with the drop of the hat, all together, the "sensible shoppers" will begin operations according to the plan. Regular bulletins will be issued with reports of shoppers and price lists. An Investigating Committee will be appointed, to keep track of the operations of the plan.

REMADE MANY TIMES.

Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum, president of the Friday Morning Club, who was the originator of the name, "Sensible Shoppers," said last Friday, "On my way to club this morning I saw these advertisements: 'An airy spring Stetson for younger-minded men,' 'this nifty suit is the society brand for those who are young and stay young.' You see we are not the only sex to whose vanity merchants make appeal. I am in accord with this attempt to reduce fabulous prices. The dress I am wearing is of the vintage of 1913 and I cannot tell how many times it has been remade and recolored."

There is a girl in our town and she is wonderous wise.
She makes her clothes all by herself and uses many dyes.

This is the solution many a club woman is offering to the problem. Do it yourself after you have shopped sensibly. Dr. Ruth Sanderson of welfare work fame, achieved a triumph in this line when she made over a 16-year-old boy's suit for her slender daughter. The trousers made a skirt of up-to-the-minute swank. The coat was metamorphosed into a box jacket of approved niftiness. The material was better than she could buy and a downtown tailor pronounced it worth $100.

Mrs. Edwin Knapp, chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said: "We are looking not only to the wardrobe of the outward body, but to the clothing of the inward woman by being tolerant, kindly and open to new ideas such as this one. The Friday Morning Club, the biggest in the federation, sets this fine constructive measure to going and others will follow the example."

As for the merchants, they acknowledge the difficulty of arriving at a satisfactory scale of prices that will help consumer, producer and merchant. They are slow to express themselves, but are kindly toward the movement, it is declared, and many have already offered their co-operation.

HITS OVERALL FAD.

Brougher Says There's no Sense Nor Helpfulness in Movement.

Declaring that "there is no possible economy in the fad that calls upon everybody to wear overalls," Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher preached in Temple Auditorium, last evening on "Economy in its Relation to Clothes," taking as his text, Matt. xxii:12—"Friends, how comest thou in hither not having a wedding garment?"

"The proposition is ethically unsound and fashionably absurd," said Dr. Brougher. "It is a big piece of 'Thomas-Decomposition'—'tommy-rot.' In order to reduce the high cost of living, it may be well for us all to wear old clothes, to patch them and make them over that they may last longer, but for everybody to wear overalls and raise the price to $40 a pair for the laboring man, who must have them in his special line of service, is not economy, but the forcing of extravagance in a line of wearing apparel that should be easily within the reach of the great mass of working people. There is not a particle of sense nor helpfulness in the overalls suggestion."

FOR ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

Hundreds of Britishers from surrounding cities yesterday attended the "evensong" services at the Church of the Angels, when four tiny members of the Sons of St. George were christened in commemoration of St. George's Day. The services are an annual affair and yesterday's exercises were devoted to the memory of Shakespeare and of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Johnson, who perished on the Lusitania.

ONE DEAD IN AUTO CRASH.

Others Hurt When Bus Turns Over; Toll of Sunday Accidents is Heavy.

One woman was killed, one man seriously injured, and ten persons were cut and bruised when the Sunland bus turned over on the State highway, one mile north of La Crescenta, yesterday morning, following a collision between the stage and a motorcycle, both traveling in the same direction.

The dead woman is Mrs. Mattie B. Shaw of Sunland. She was thrown from her seat when the heavy bus turned over, and received injuries from which she died a few minutes after arrival at the Glendale Sanatorium. Dave Cory, also of Sunland, who was driving the motorcycle, was taken to the sanatorium suffering from concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. He is in a serious condition. The stage was driven by James L. Brown, and was going south toward La Crescenta. The motorcycle, according to Driver Brown, was just ahead of the bus and was taking short twists on the road when in some manner it got in the way of the heavier vehicle. Nearly all of the twelve passengers on the bus received contusions and slight lacerations and were taken to their homes.

TWO INJURED.

Elizabeth Gordon and Earl W. Gordon of 1160 Jane street were injured when they were struck by a Liberty Stage Line bus, driven by Joseph B. Stefel, while crossing the street on Stephenson avenue, near Norris, yesterday. According to Stefel's report to the police, the couple crossed the street directly in front of him after dodging another automobile. Both received severe contusions and lacerations and were given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital by Assistant Police Surgeon Beggs.

FALLS FROM AUTO.

Miss Loretta Follis, 32 years of age, a stenographer, was badly injured when she fell out of an automobile in which she was riding near White House place and Bimini Baths yesterday. Miss Follis and two girl companions were given a "lift" by M. E. Kimball of 1649 La Mirada street, from First and Vermont to Sixth and Vermont as an accommodation because the street car service was out at that point. Miss Follis was riding on the door, and when the car swerved to make a turn, she fell to the pavement. At the Receiving Hospital the physicians said she had concussion of the brain and other serious injuries.

FATALLY INJURED.

LUCK LEADS TO LOOT.

Clothing, silverware and jewelry valued at colse to $10,000 were recovered yesterday as the result of a combination of good police work and luck. The "luck" was impersonated by Mrs. Breta Marcias of 725 Castellar street, who told Patrolman L. P. Taylor at Central Station that some strangers entered her home shortly before dawn and asked her to kep for them a lot of clothing and silverware they said they had bought at a fire sale.

When Officer Taylor went to the Castellar-street house he found practically the entire loot taken the day before from the Kleinberger & Company's store, 404 North Main street, as well as other valuables. There were fifty-nine suits, seventy shirts, including many silk ones; forty-five silk dresses and other articles taken from the Kleinberger store. A handgrip containing silverware and articles of jewelry was recognized by Detectives Jarvis, Zeigler, Wallace and Hamilton as being property taken from the home of Ralph L. Garnier, 1413 West Eleventh street, and a letter giving an address on Sunset boulevard, led the detectives to a house at 510 Sunset boulevard, where they arrested three young Mexicans, and charged them with burglary. These men gave the names of Jose Ramirez, 20 years of age; Jose Perez, 21, and Tony Abrego, 32. In their room were found other articles taken during the Garnier burglary, the officers assert. The men refused to make any statement.

The three prisoners, the officers say, are the men who have been burglarising Los Angeles stores and residences recently, and are the same trio who were chased by Patrolmen Barber and Laurence when the officer discovered them in a Ford coupe near the Kleinberger store, early yesterday morning. The police theory is that the suspects became frightened and decided to leave the stolen stuff in the Castellar-street house.

ZEALOUS WORK KILLS NOTED COAST PASTOR.

DR. DELMER H. TRIMBLE, VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS, DIES IN THIS CITY.

Tuberculosis, brought about by zealous devotion to duty, yesterday caused the death of Rev. Delmer H. Trimble, D.D., a former pastor of the West Adams-street Methodist Church and afterward a noted minister in the Northwest. He died in the prime of life at his Los Angeles home, 437 West Fifty-second place, two years after breaking down with hemorrhages in Champaign, Ill., when he was pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Trimble had a noted record on the Coast he added 2000 members to his churches in twelve years. After serving at the West Adams church in its initial stage he went to Eugene, Or., staying four years, then to the Centenary Church of Portland and next to Tacoma First Methodist Church, for similar periods. Everywhere he worked with the utmost energy, doubling memberships, repairing church buildings or erecting new ones and greatly increasing church receipts.

The funeral service will be conducted at Pierce Bros.' undertaking rooms at 10 a.m., tomorrow, Rev. Merle Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Pasadena, officiating. Rev. Leak of Hemet and Rev. George Steed of South Main-street Methodist Church will assist. Dr. Trimble was a member of Tacoma Lodge No. 22, A. F. & A. M., and Masons are invited to attend as private citizens.

NO SETTLEMENT.

So Morosco Suit Over Theater Will Come up for Hearing Today.

After several continuances, with the expectation of a settlement, the suit of Annie T. Mitchell against Oliver M. Mitchell, better known as Oliver Morosco, to enjoin him from interfering with her management of the Morosco Theater, will be called in Judge Jackson's court this morning.

It was announced at the last continuance that a settlement would be accomplished in a week's time, and telegrams have flown between this city and New York with that object in view, but seemingly nothing has come of them.

The matter comes before the court today on an order to show cause why Mr. Morosco should not be restrained from interfering with his wife's management of the theater. There is also a question of profits and other matters about which the couple disagreed.

MAKE NIGHT RAID.

Police Descend on Suspected Lottery, but Find Game has Flown.

In a raid on a Chinese lottery at 409 North Los Angeles street last night, the place was completely wrecked, a quantity of tickets secured and one Wong Sing was taken to the Central Police Station and booked on the charge of playing the lottery. The majority of the occupants fled through an underground passage while the officers were breaking down the doors.

Officers Posner, Waugh and D. McD Jones, under the direction of Detective Sergeant McIntosh, in charge of the Chinatown detail, entered the place from both the Los Angeles and the Sanchez-street sides and broke through four heavy doors into the main lottery room.

Last night's raid was a sequel to the many that Sergt. McIntosh has directed in the last nine months, in which over $22,000 has been collected from the tables. He stated last night that lottery playing is at the lowest point that it has been in years.

HAS POCKET PICKED.

J. A. Mathewson, 1020 Mignonette street, reported to the police last night that someone picked his pocket, yesterday afternoon, as he was getting on a street car at Sixth and Hill streets. J. A. Fowler, who lives at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, is reported to have seen the pick-pocket at work and gave the police a description of the man.

PORK POLITICS NOT FOR WOOD.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Hits "Bee."

Tells Why He's for Hoover in Statement with Punch.

Ingratitude Charge Merely Petty Mouthing, He Says.

"I would stultify myself and prove my unworthiness for American citizenship if I voted for a man who stands for the principles in which I do not believe."

This statement was made yesterday by Will C. Wood, Superintendent of Public Instruction in California, and issued through the Hoover Republican Club here, in reply to a criticism of his position in supporting Herbert Hoover and refusing to support Hiram Johnson, made recently in the Sacramento Bee.

"I am for the League of Nations. Hiram Johnson is against any such league," declared Mr. Wood. "I am for the limitation of military and naval armaments throughout the world. Hiram Johnson's course of opposition to world co-operation in reducing armaments means that our country must groan under heavy taxes for a huge army and navy.

"My desire was to keep out of the Presidential primary campaign, and since C. K. McClatchy, Jr., of the Sacramento Bee, on Thursday nominated me to be shot at sunrise for treason to Hiram Johnson, I have a few words to say.

"First of all, Hiram Johnson did not appoint me commissioner of secondary schools, nor did he nominate me to the State Board of Education, nor was he even aware of my existence before my appointment. Be it said to his credit, he refused to do politics in appointments to school positions.

"I was not a candidate for the office, but was invited by the board to accept it, the vote being unsolicited and unanimous. In order to accept it, I gave up a position quite as good. Before C. K., Jr., writes again about Hiram Johnson placing me under everlasting obligation, let me recommend that he ascertain the facts more carefully.

IDENTIFIED AS MISSING WIFE.

Link Reputed Multibigamist with Disappearance.

Woman Known as Mrs. Lewis is English Heiress.

Locate Another Suit Case; It may Yield Evidence.

Information obtained by The Times yesterday from the Chief of Police at Hancock, Mich., gave Sheriff Cline's officers working on the case of Walter Andrew Watson, who they say is a man of many wives and aliases, the final connecting links with which they expect to chain their unique prisoner to still another mysterious disappearance of a wealthy woman he is alleged to have married.

The Michigan official's telegram confirmed the fact hat Mrs. Beatrice Andrewatha, a wealthy English heiress, and sister-in-law of Joseph Hoskin of Hancock, is the woman who married Harry M. Lewis at Tacoma February 5, 1919. Lewis, the officers say, is an alias of Watson's. The woman, the telegram said, was to go on a lengthy honeymoon trip, but instead dropped out of sight. This information fits in with the evidence held here by Sheriff Cline, whose deputies, Couts and Bell, have a list of the woman's relatives, including the name of Hoskin, some of her notes, a card showing a joint bank deposit in a Seattle bank, and several sheets of white paper with the woman's signature on the bottom.

MISLEADING LETTERS.

There are also many unmailed postcards with Honolulu scenes, addressed in Mrs. Andrewatha's handwriting to the relatives whose names appear on the list. Dispatches from Tacoma, where other relatives of the missing woman live, further confirm the identification by stating that the last letter from the woman was a typewritten one with a forged signature, mailed from Sacramento in March, 1919. In the cases of other women who disappeared after they are said to have married Watson, similar letters figure as the last clews.

Another important discovery was the receipt for a package shipped by Watson to himself in Sacramento. This was sent by the American Railway Express collect, in the name of C. N. Harvey, and is now in the northern city. The Chief of Police there was asked by Deputies Couts and Bell to locate the package, which is believed to be a suit case, wire a list of its contents and then send it to Los Angeles. The deputies think it contains the very evidence they need to learn the whereabouts of Nina Lee Deloney, who disappeared from Santa Monica January 26.

Sheriff Cline has decided to concentrate his efforts from now on on finding the body or some trace of Nina Lee Deloney Harvey. A telegram from Jessie Murray of Eureka, Mont., the missing woman's close friend, gave a description of

The People and Their Daily Troubles

YOURSELF in a MIRROR

BY JANE DIXON.

The girl who collects her complexion at a cosmetic counter is working along the same general plan as the woman who conceals cheap lingerie beneath her costly gown. Beauty cannot be applied. It must radiate from the inside out. Good health, regular living, clean thinking, here is the answer, and, alas, almost without exception, shy at make-up. Then why the make-up?

It is the purpose of every woman to please men or a man.

There may be those who take issue with this premise. They are either truth dodgers or soured on the subject.

JANE DIXON

Admitting, then, the healthy and natural desire of women to appear to advantage in the eyes of men, a swarm of interrogation points come buzzing around the thinking brain, demanding answer.

WHY?

Knowing full well the ideas and ideals of the sterner sex concerning herself, her conduct, her clothes, her looks, her ambitions, her character—in fact, all that concerns her—why will woman, in the perversity of her nature, deliberately set about to defeat her own purpose?

In the matter of looks, for example.

Why the heavy rouge pot?

Why the excessive lip stick?

Why the mask of rice powder?

Why the overdose of eye pencil, mascara brush, brow black and sundry other tools of the toilet table?

"Great Cleopatra's ghost!" I hear femininity frothing, "I hope you are not going to issue protests against a few first aids to beauty at this late date. The make-up box has become an accepted fact. To rail at it is ancient verbiage."

Calm yourself, my amateur Venus. I have no intention of listing myself among the mossbacks. Truth to tell, I have a very handy little camouflage kit of my own.

It is not against the existence of these very worthy beauty adjuncts the thinking woman would raise her voice.

Excessive use of them—that is the woeful Waterloo.

Here is a morsel of food for reflection, ladies:—

There is not one single man you know or will meet, at least not one American man, who honestly admires make-up.

Nor is this all, or even the half.

Practically every man you know or will meet thoroughly detests make-up at a high rate of visibility.

Yet the average girl or woman goes on applying it in gobs and dabs.

How do you figure it out? Or don't you?

I confess, so far as logic is concerned, it is a clear case of the irresistible object meeting the immovable stone wall.

Woman desires to please man. Man dislikes make-up. Woman knows man dislikes make-up. Woman dons make-up—to please man.

Fine feminine logic, this! Small wonder they have been slow to grant us the vote.

"Humph," sneered a friend who, by reason of her own stubborn folly, has acquired any but an exalted opinion of man's judgment. "All this chatter about 'sweet and simple' goes very good—until you find the man you care for flitting about with some creature who could go on after the first act without bothering to go near her dressing-room."

"Exactly," chimed in another bad picker. "You can hear your husband howling half way to Chicago when he finds a lip stick in your purse. Get him in a restaurant when some painted lady floats by. If you even so much as suggest her coloring isn't real he puts you down as a jealous cat. He feels sorry for you because you are so plain."

"Yes," chimed a third, reaching for the concentrated vanity case, "and while we are sitting at home being natural the girl who plays the game is out having a good time with the beaux."

What a wonderful help is a sense of humor!

When I laughed at the vapid philosophy of these three wise fools, as I could not help doing, they looked at me as if I had insulted a supply of real intelligence.

Yet here they were, by their own admission, flat failures at the purpose of pleasing the men of their desire—and all three made up to look like walking delegates for a cosmetic company.

Not one of them went deep enough to realize the comedy she was creating—how she was an eloquent defeat for her own argument.

Does the wearer of any of these ridiculous calcimined faces we see peacocking along the parade really imagine she is fooling the public, especially the male public?

"Clowning," a regular fellow I know calls it.

A most appropriate name, too. Even "Toto" in all his glory was never arrayed like one of these.

Notice how men laugh and pass sotto voice remarks when the clown woman struts by, her face blanched with powder, her lips stiff with rouge, her lashes beaded with black.

Some there be who do not laugh. Instead they turn away in disgust.

That first woman of my complaining trio, the one who charged the man she cared for could not appreciate her reality because he was too busy flirting with a "clowner," ought to be spending her time rejoicing instead of whining.

Such a man is not worth the powder to blow him up, much less the price of a box of scented Java rice with a French label.

And Fortune was good enough to allow her to find him out.

As for the second complainant—sounds very much as if the "cat" imputation might be true. A man may look at a woman with other than thoughts of sincere admiration. Husbands are human beings. They may be shocked or startled or amused or intrigued the same as any other humans.

All of us are more or less fascinated by the weird, the bizarre—at a distance. A man may even admire a bizarre woman, for the moment. He admires a tiger, too, in its cage, but he has no desire to keep one in his home.

The third girl is right in her conclusion, as far as she has gone. Had she not taken the trouble to stay for the finish.

Perhaps the daring miss with the cosmetic coloring and the hennaed hair does romp away with most of the loose beaux and a major slice of good times. I am prone to believe, however, "gay" times fits the better term.

Have you noticed, though, how often these beaux remain just that—beaux?

And how, when there comes a man who fails for the drug shop Cleopatra, he is not at all the sort of man a real girl would select for purposes of matrimony?

A man who could be seriously attracted by a vivid imitation rose whose flush dies out with the dawn is not worth the winning, nor the mating.

Power? Yes. It protects the delicate texture of the skin and accentuates the tints of it—when used within reason. But powder was never meant to be a mask.

Rouge? Yes. A light touch of it may be becoming on both lips and cheeks. But before making use of such aids to nature, learn how to apply rouge properly. Dabbing it on regardless makes you appear ridiculous. Just how and where to apply rouge is an art in itself. When you have mastered that art no man will know whether you resort to rouge or wear your blush as Nature gave it to you.

What is true of rouge is true of all other make-up. A little goes a long way. And even this little must be a matter of careful study.

Meantime it is well to remember one most important factor in achieving this purpose of pleasing men or THE man—every mother's son of them has a keen admiration for clean, wholesome health.

There is no cosmetic expert extant who can paint the color in your cheeks, the crimson on your lips, the cream on your throat, the luster on your hair, the light in your eyes—like that master beauty doctor of the world—Good Health.

Think it over!

GASOLINE ALLEY—YOU'VE GOT TO DRIVE IT, DOC

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Question: What is the fastest speed an airplane has made up to the present date? K. E. M.

Answer: Lieut. Everett Davis of the Eighth Aero Squadron, flying a DH-4 B, made a flight from Kelly Field to McAllen, Tex., covering the distance of 256 miles in 100 minutes—approximately 2 3-4 miles per minute. This is the best record made to date.

Q.: Are the Niagara Falls receding steadily? T. O. S.

A.: The annual recession on the American side of Niagara is between two and nine inches a year. The Horseshoe Falls have receded about five feet since 1842, which would be about one inch a year.

Q.: How many degrees have ships been known to roll? T. C. U.

A.: The Navy Department says that ships have been known to roll 45 degrees to 50 degrees without capsizing.

Q.: What is the meaning and force of K. C. after a man's name G. R.

A.: The letters K. C. are an abbreviation for King's Counsel, a legal title of honor conferred upon distinguished barristers by royal patent in Great Britain and the Colonies. The honor concerns no office, but permits certain rights of precedence.

Q.: What is the difference between an alligator and a crocodile P. D. A.

A.: The alligator and the crocodile are closely related reptiles of the same family. There are only a few minor differences, in form. The alligator has a round, blunt snout, and the crocodile a long, thin one. There are only two species of alligator, one of which is found in Florida and other parts of the South, and the other in China. There are a number of species of crocodile, one of which is also found in Florida. The crocodile is a more aggressive, treacherous and altogether dangerous reptile than the alligator.

Q.: How much money do the railroads of this country represent? R. B. O.

A.: The approximate value of railroads in the United States is between $19,000,000,000 and $20,000,000,000.

Q.: Why should a silo be round? M. E. R.

A.: Round silos are more easily reinforced to withstand the bursting pressure. The round shape has no corners for air pockets, making it possible to pack the green feed as tightly as preserves in a glass jar.

Q.: Why do poultry men advise against the production of fertile eggs? T. R. A.

A.: It has been found that fertile eggs spoil more readily than infertile eggs.

Q.: Where is the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes?" J. D. A.

A.: The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes is a region of volcanic activity near Mt. Katmai, Alaska.

Q.: Is there any law that provides for a superintendent of a poor farm opening all the mail of those who live there? T. L. G.

A.: The Postoffice Department says that the sealed mail of inmates of the County Home is as fully protected from unlawful opening as the mail of any other citizen. The mere fact that these inmates, mostly former tax payers, are so unfortunate as to seek the shelter of the home gives the superintendent no license to interfere with their letters for the purpose of prying into their secrets further than he has to obtain letters of any other citizen for that purpose.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Need the Bonus.

BALBOA, April 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Times, of April 12, contained an article on "Opposition to Soldiers' Bonus."

I would like to tell you what a cash bonus would mean to some of the soldiers whom I know. It would enable them to pay for the first civilian suits which they bought when they were released from the army. I have been, and am now in the home service of the Red Cross and I personally know of such cases. It might save some of the men who have, through lack of money, been driven into crime, and I use the word "driven," advisedly. It might enable some of those college boys, who, through the family gifts to war necessities, have been unable to return to college, to return to college and work out their lives as they might have been if they had not entered the army and endured that two years of hell. Does the speaker remember he might have had no home and no public improvements to pay for if our boys had not gone over to fight for his home? Are all the necessities of the nation to be put ahead of the dire need of the ex-soldier? Suppose he is given land—how many are fitted for such an occupation and would show any efficiency in that work—how many would be prohibited by living expenses and debts from taking advantage of the use of land and would sell to the nearest "land-grabber" to get the money needed for his necessities? Remember that it is the great middle class which is the back bone of the nation that suffered most from the war and the nation has no right to dictate how that just compensation shall be spent.

I am reminded of an incident in our home service work when a zealous worker went out to buy food for a family in need of help and, of course, bought peas when the family was fond of beans and coffee which not one of the family used. There is a debt which every being owes—the debt of gratitude. Will not the attitude of the American nation determine the feelings with which the soldier regards his badge of service? It must be, to him, a token of gratitude or ingratitude—which? MRS. W. W. WILSON.

Plenty of Reasons.

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It has been said that supporters of Senator Johnson are waiting to hear any reason why he is not worthy of the honor of being President of the United States. There are many reasons, and not least among them is his attitude towards the League of Nations.

Consider these facts, which will probably be admitted by every one:

1. The idea of a League of Nations to prevent the horrors of war, which have cursed mankind since the beginning of history, had its origin in our country. It is an American idea.

2. Forty-five nations have now accepted this American idea, and have become members of the League. Among these are nations that are as jealous of their own authority and independence as our own, or even more jealous than our own. Witness the South American republics, which have been disposed to resent even our Monroe Doctrine because they felt it contained an implication of authority over them, although one of its objects was their protection.

3. The leading men of the United States, President Wilson, ex-President Taft, Charles E. Hughes, Elihu Root, William J. Bryan, Cardinal Gibbons, the presidents of our universities, almost without exception, and others as eminent from every part of the land, have indorsed the League, some of them, it is true, with reservations, and others without reservations. Theodore Roosevelt published over his own signature in the Metropolitan of January, 1919, an article (which anyone can read in the Los Angeles Public Library) in which he [illegible] favorable to the League.

4. More than two-thirds of the Senators of the United States voted in favor of the League, half of them desiring [illegible] to it, and the other half reservations.

Opposed to this overwhelming [illegible] of the civilized world are Senator Johnson and a few others, the so-called "irreconcilables," death, the bitter-enders, who are confessedly actuated by motives of some of our late Allies, who are supported by the [illegible] with their war [illegible] the sale of Irish bonds, and the pro-Germans, and traitors.

Even supposing that Senator Johnson really believes the League is bad, is it likely that he is the only man of wisdom that the country should be accepted as [illegible] of not only our most [illegible] and women, but the most [illegible] men and women of the world?

JAMES E. [illegible]

"The Overall Question."

LONG BEACH, April [illegible], 1920.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The subject of this overall question is, how to reduce the cost of clothing. How can it do it? Overalls have gone up from $3 to $9 since it started. All hope something can be done to reduce clothes as well as food. The weak point in this plan is that the average man will not and really cannot wear the denim, to say nothing of the color. Therefore, not counting a few overall customers sufficient to keep up the supply of clothing-cotton mills, there is another feature in the question. Why wear clothes? Overalls are cool and comfortable. Why wear woolen underwear in the summer? Why not be a true southerner and go naked? Then, my friend, the present clothing problem is solved.

Would this not be a boon to the Anti-Form clubs, the members of which will put up forfeit of [illegible] agreeing not to purchase clothing during the year 1920? Any member breaks the rule by wearing clothes, or by reporting him, is to forfeit money. Let's get busy.

Paint Protection is Economy

A building painted with W. P. Fuller & Co.'s Paint is wrapped in a weather-tight covering. Dwellings, Barns, Fences and other structures, whether of Wood, Metal or Concrete, should be preserved from decay and disintegration by the use of good Paint. A square yard of Paint coating upon a surface costs a few cents, yet it will beautify and protect dollars' worth of property for many years. Destructive elements are always at work, a little chip here, a little spot of decay somewhere else, and soon the building is an old building, and Paint, W. P. Fuller & Co.'s Paint, would have prevented the destruction.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

"There is a good deal of nonsense talked these days in criticism of 'creeds and dogmas.' Some people seem to think that if we could only get rid of these the millennium would be here. But some sort of religious belief is necessary for every thinking man. And in addition to the great historic creeds which express the common faith of the church, every man should have one of his own, worked out of his own life and experience and belonging particularly to him.

"If a man will start with something close home and perfectly sure, such as the simple distinction between right and wrong, he can work out a personal creed which will contain the essential elements of religious belief and which will be his own. This is not an easy task, and cannot be done unless you are in earnest about it. The people who think they can beg or borrow a system of religious faith, or who would like the preacher to tell them in a leisure moment how they may hold to the things for which intelligent and earnest men have struggled hard, are the despair of the preacher's life.

"You will never work out a personal creed unless you are in earnest about it. But do not be disturbed by what people call 'doubts.' It is not a sin to believe nonsense if you don't know it, but it is a sin to believe what you know isn't so.

"Don't aspire to be without any definite and well-grounded religious convictions, for that is liable to indicate a fatal incapacity for ideas. It is true, as so often quoted, 'as a man thinketh, so is he,' but it is also true that as a man is, so will he think. You cannot be a mean man and hold a great creed."

REV. E. F. DAUGHERTY.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

"Of one man only has it with warrant been said, 'Never man spake like this man,' and that man was the Man of Galilee, the premier preacher of all time. 'He speaketh boldly' was the first report of critics of his style, and upon their solicitation of the authorities to put a quietus on him, the commission was assigned, but those carrying it brought back the memorable tribute, 'Never man spake like this man.' 'Twas so because as a spokesman he was more than man, he was the incarnate God. An ability in speech, a charm of utterance, a force of expression, a truth in setting unparalleled among men was His, as testified by His enemies.

"Again men marveled because He 'spake with authority.' He bore as credentials of His authority the witness of the spirit, the evidence of miracles, the proof of testimony from the unseen world with the unimpeachable addition of His personal holy life.

"Love, ineffable, overmastering, inexpressible love, alone binds Him to the world, floods from His heart and life in its every day of record and enables Him at last to pray, 'Father forgive them, they know not what they do.'

"Such a character cannot be adequately described, it can only be felt by the sympathetic imitative heart."

ETHAN SCHEIDLER.
BIBLE STUDENTS.

"The prophecies of the Bible are replete with symbolic terms. Careful students find that the Bible itself explains many of these symbols as in Matt. xiii:18-23, 36-43. We are also instructed in Isa. 1:18 to use our reason. This we do, using for a basis the divine plan as recorded in plain language.

"The divine recognition of the common people is plainly stated in Jno. iii:16, 'God so loved the world;' Lu. ii:10, 'Good tidings of great joy shall be to all people;' I Jno. ii:2, 'He is a propitiation not for our sins only, but for the sins of the whole world:' Jno. 1:29, 'The Lamb of God taketh away the sins of the world;' Jno. vi:51, 'I will give my flesh for the lies of the world;' I Tim. ii:4-6, 'Who gave himself a ransom for all to be testified in due time.'"

"Any propoganda that sows jealousy, discord and misunderstanding between the two great English-speaking peoples perpetrates a crime against humanity. Anglo-American ideals must prevail in the new civilization if the race is to be saved from the prevailing anarchy, and it is the privilege of America and the British Empire to co-operate to that end.

"Sinn-Feinism and anti-British agitation designed to estrange and antagonize these two commonwealths is weakening the world-wide movement to stabilize social and industrial conditions. Newspapers that deliberately falsify the news or by screaming headlines seek to arouse prejudice and hatred are doing the devil's work. Editorials and cartoons that portray England as a scheming, sordid exploiter trying to use America as a catspaw are vicious and untruthful. This propaganda is foreign-made and its purpose is to prevent co-operation between America and Great Britain and to promote German trade and Bolshevik ideas. It is rather a striking coincidence that the newspapers that are anti-British are also very solicitous that the terms of the peace treaty be modified in Germany's favor or are very radical in their social ideas."

"Horticulture and hearticulture are beautifully related studies. The human sower of divine 'seed' would greatly enrich his fund of 'word-pictures if he became a close student of scores of things that may be learned to great profit on the farm. Our Master levied upon the opportunity nearest at hand and the object that would the most graphically and vividly portray the theme He was trying to teach. As the soil, the climate, and even the sower, would all labor fruitlessly without the presence of the seed, so will the human agency fail without the divine seed—the word. As the good soil of the kingdoms of earth must be the support of man—so must the good and honest hearts' be the hope of humantly."

LAKE AVENUE METHODIST.

"Did everybody in Los Angeles go to one church who would be better off? Not the preacher. There is not a preacher in town with a big congregation but is sorry he knows so few people. A crowd has so little soul. Not the genuinely good man. A man like that thinks more of God than of people. Loving his neighbor is a record commandment. The praying of the world is rarely done in a crowd. Did you notice the meeting Wednesday night? The wise man would not smile. He remembers that culture is not a flower of the field and understands religion is something like it. The rich man never did care much for crowds, and religious crowds especially. The poor man has quarreled down the ages that he was lost in the crowd. Of all places a crowd is hard on the children. The old and feeble and quiet of soul would sicken of the crush."

REV. JOHN A. LENSINGER.
IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN.

"To Paul, the master preacher and theologian, the cross of Christ was no cheap thing. It was central in his thinking, work and life. To him the cross was not an architectural decoration or a piece of jewelry. It was a piece of rough timber with a dying man nailed to it—the Son of God and the Son of Man. The ancient saying: 'No cross, no crown,' and 'Through darkness to the light,' are not popular in this ease-loving, pleasure-loving age. Too many today are falling down at the shrine of the goddess of pleasure. She has captivated multitudes. There are many false prophets among us for these are they who promise us Christianity without the rough-hewn cross. In the life of Jesus, the cross was a fitting close. It ended rejection and scorn and defeat. In no true sense have these things changed for the real Christ is still rejected and crucified anew. Moral courage is still needed by all who truly follow Him."

Disinfection Makes Epidemics Impossible

Epidemics of contagious disease would be unknown if disinfection and sanitation were practised universally and regularly.

Disinfection and disease germs never go hand in hand. One works for good, the other for evil. Never can both be present at the same time.

Do your part to prevent epidemics by practising and urging intelligent and sure disinfection.

Lysol Disinfectant

Kills germ life at the instant of application.

Order Lysol Disinfectant sprinkled throughout your establishment, wherever germs might lurk or be created.

Take a bottle home. Have a solution sprinkled in sinks, drains, toilets, garbage cans, dark corners. Then forget about the menace of the disease germ.

A 50c bottle makes five gallons of powerful disinfectant; a 25c bottle makes two gallons.

Remember, there is but one genuine Lysol Disinfectant—made, bottled, signed, and sealed by Lehn & Fink, Inc.

Lysol Toilet Soap — 25c a Cake — Contains the necessary proportion of the antiseptic ingredients of Lysol Disinfectant to protect the skin from germ infection. It is refreshingly soothing and healing and helps by improving the skin. Ask your dealer. If he hasn't it, ask him to order it for you.

Lysol Shaving Cream in Tubes — Contains the necessary proportion of the antiseptic ingredients of Lysol Disinfectant to kill germs on razor and shaving-brush (where germs abound) and to guard the tiny cuts from infection, and gives an antiseptic shave. If your dealer hasn't it, ask him to order a supply for you.

MONEY TALKS.

According to Meyer Lissner the Los Angeles millionaires on Johnson's staff have thus far put up less than $2000 for Hiram's campaign fund and the total raised here is hardly $4000. But Senator Newberry was given a court sentence for spending more than $3750 in the whole State of Michigan, and Hiram has been advertising his campaign as a moneyless one. Probably most of the talk about political funds is for campaign purposes, but Meyer Lissner need not worry where his next dollar is coming from. Before this thing is over the Johnson people will be spending in one way or another at least $200,000 to carry the primary against Hoover. Most of this will never appear in any report, but it will be expended just the same. Not much of it will come from Johnson's pocket—trust him for that. As a spender of other people's money and as a claimant for other people's service Hiram is the undisputed champion of his time.

THE ELECTRIC JAG.

A scientific expert has disclosed the possibilities of an electric jag. He can so tone and disseminate a current that it will have most of the effects of a battery of Scotch highballs with none of the distressing phases of the aftermath. There need be no remorse or recrimination. With an electrode to the forehead and a zinc sheet under foot the titillating ecstasies of a champagne soak are said to be possible. If the professor can prove up on his claim a lot of folks will be wanting to put in zinc floors in their homes and will be whistling for all kinds of electric connections. It used to be that a man would have to push the button a dozen times at a dollar or so a throw before he could get up much steam, but if a gent can start off a jag with one pressure of the buzzer a good deal of worry over the Eighteenth Amendment would subside. If a man can get a kick back from the electric light company he won't be so much inclined to kick about his bill. But what will William Jennings Bryan and some of the other reformers do if a man can get pickled on a couple of watts of electric juice? If a fellow gives a party they would be sneaking up in the night and cutting the wires.

TOO PERILOUS TO LIVE.

Years ago a newspaper started a discussion of the question, "Is Life Worth Living?" and the correspondence on the subject was bulkier even than one of De Morgan's books. Now a magazine is trying to get people interested in "the risk of being alive." The author of a skittish sort of article states that people have only to glance at the morning's paper to be convinced that it's a wonder they are not all dead. He tells of the obvious dangers which hourly haunt all humans in large cities and then proceeds to find fault with the papers because they fail to give a portrait of the boy who sneezes in a public vehicle without putting his hand to his mouth and so sends a germ across the aisle to infect a handsome, middle-aged man who is going bald, or of the equally bad boy who throws a piece of orange peel on the sidewalk, causing the judge to slip and suffer a broken leg. While our friend sees death in shaving brushes and holds up possibilities of being choked by a fishbone he is, one is glad to note, not afraid to eat white bread or to partake of salt. He even casts a doubt on the possibility of getting typhoid fever from the foot of a fly or appendicitis from the pip of a grape. Somebody ought to send him the "Care-of-the-Body" section of The Times and warn him not to be too cocksure on these subjects. But why should anyone care so much about his death? Death is nothing to trouble over; it's only the fear of death that causes a sinking of the heart.

NORWAY'S POLAR HERO.

Again polar sea honors go to Norway. Capt. Roald Amundsen, the first to accomplish the Northwest Passage by water when he took the Gjoa through in 1903-6, has once more interested the scientific world by reporting after a nineteen months' drift in the Maud. While details of his remarkable voyage must be awaited, it would appear that if his quest was the pole he failed to reach it as Nansen failed in his three years' drift in the Fram fourteen years before Peary planted the Stars and Stripes at the long-sought goal. If Amundsen had won to the pole he would hardly have ended up in Anadyr, which is a gulf in Bering Sea into which the river of that name flows. The Nansen voyage and the line taken by the wreck of the Jeanette, sent from San Francisco in 1879 by James Gordon Bennett, indicate that the ice drift in the region of the pole is toward Europe. Amundsen landed in the extreme top of Asia. In the North Pole basin, on the side from which the hardy Norwegian started, the floe ice is slowly carried by the prevailing wind and currents in an average direction from Bering Sea and the New Siberian Islands, near the pole north of Franz Josef Land and Spitzbergen and so to Greenland. But Capt. Amundsen's object may not have been to reach the pole, that having been attained years ago by the noted American naval officer who died recently. Whatever prompted him to make the trip, he has won new laurels in the white north.

NOT A CHANCE FOR JOHNSON.

Although Senator Johnson won another direct primary State on Friday, he is much farther from the Republican nomination than he was a week ago. For, while he was winning twenty-four delegates in Nebraska and Montana, Wood and Lowden won in primaries and State conventions a total of 128 delegates. The most notable victory of the week was the capture of the entire Iowa delegation of twenty-six votes by Gov. Lowden. Added to his fifty-eight delegates from Illinois, five from Rhode Island and thirty-six pledged from delegates already selected in the Southern States, the Lowden total to date becomes 125 pledged delegates.

Gen. Wood still leads with 148 pledged delegates. Lowden with his 125 is second. Nicholas Murray Butler with ninety New York delegates is third. Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania with his conceded seventy-six delegates is fourth and Senator Johnson with forty-eight pledged is fifth. If Senator Johnson were to win every primary in which he will be a candidate until the delegates are all named, he would go into the convention with less than 150 votes. When one considers that there will be 990 delegates in the convention, it becomes apparent that this group of 150 delegates, if Johnson had them all, would not make much of a splash.

Senator Johnson's successes in the Presidential preference primaries of Michigan, Nebraska and Montana make attractive headlines for the papers, but they do not elect delegates. A Presidential preference vote becomes binding upon a State delegation only when the victor has won the majority of the votes cast by his party in the primary. Pluralities are of no more worth in Presidential preference primaries than in conventions.

Senator Johnson has not won a single State in which conventions are held; and more than half the delegates to the national convention are elected in State conventions, composed of delegates either appointed or elected in primaries. The result of the recent voting in the Bolshevist States of the Middle West has disclosed the absolute menace of the direct primary to American institutions. That danger lies in the fact that the direct primary permits the choice of a candidate by a minority vote. In these unsettled times such a menace is not to be regarded lightly. Notwithstanding their heavy foreign populations, Senator Johnson could not have carried either Michigan or Nebraska if he had been pitted against a single candidate. It would have been impossible for him to get a majority of the Republican vote in either of those States; for the majority of the Republican voters there are opposed to pro-Germanism, radicalism and pacifism. In each State Johnson ran with the Red and pro-German support against five candidates who divided the loyal support; and he won on a minority vote.

If every State held direct primaries like those in Michigan and Nebraska, it might be possible for the radical and disloyal elements to combine and win on a minority vote the delegations of a majority of the States. But when delegates are elected in primaries to State conventions, then the radical and loyal lines are fairly drawn. A radical minority can never win in a convention; for the loyal delegates always combine on a candidate whose loyalty is not under suspicion. They are able to judge a candidate by the company he keeps.

Direct primaries are minority primaries. That is why few of the States have direct Presidential primaries.

The present week will be one of the most important for the selection of delegates. Massachusetts, New Jersey and Ohio will have Presidential primaries and three or four States will hold conventions for the selection of candidates. If Senator Harding succeeds in winning the Ohio primary and gets the forty-eight votes from that State, he will become a contender in the Republican convention. Massachusetts is expected to elect a delegation favorable to Gov. Coolidge, in case he is willing to have his name presented. The second choice of the Massachusetts delegation will probably be Hoover; although Gen. Wood is a contender in the primary and may win half a dozen delegates. It is interesting to note that these two States have jointly eighty-four delegates—more than the whole Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain States—and that Senator Johnson is not even ranked as a contender in either of them.

There is always a tendency, however, before the convention to magnify the importance of the direct primary results. In 1912 Clark led Wilson more than 3 to 1 in the direct primary States, and still lost the nomination. In 1916 Hughes did not permit his name to be used in a single direct primary State; his position was similar to that of Hoover this year; and yet he received the nomination, and, but for treachery among those who were giving up service to the Republican party in California, he would have been elected President.

As the campaign progresses the great independent papers are coming out for Hoover. The Saturday Evening Post, Life and the New York World are for him on any ticket. The independent Democratic and independent Republican papers also make him their first choice; while the Republican papers which name Wood, Lowden or Harding for the first choice agree that Hoover is the logical compromise candidate.

The Times, World and Tribune of New York have sounded a joint warning that there must be a concentration of loyal voters to oppose the disloyal league that is supporting Senator Johnson. The New York Tribune observes editorially:

> Senator Johnson still presents himself as the true and lawful heir of the Roosevelt tradition. It is not easy to allow the claim in view of the political company now seemingly welcome to this Roosevelt claimant. One can't exactly see Col. Roosevelt, if alive, marching with the I.W.W. or the pro-Germans or the Hearsts and Thompsons. . . . The Republican convention is not likely to be a body whose majority will vote for any candidate vouched for by radicals of a revolutionary or extremely pacifist type.

The simple truth of the situation is that Senator Johnson and his immediate backers know that he has not even a dead man's chance to carry the Republican convention. They know his support will not amount to as many as 150 delegates; that the conservative delegates, who will be in a great majority, will never vote for a candidate with Red and pro-German backing. But they do figure that the advertising Johnson is getting in the Republican primaries will be an asset in the new third party which they are now organizing.

They expect to stage a walkout in the Republican convention, with the Nebraska, Montana and North Dakota delegations leading; and they are hoping to win the California delegation and carry it along with them. If there are any who have been deceived by the Hearst-Johnson propaganda, it may be interesting for them to know that odds of five to one are offered right here in Los Angeles that Johnson will not win the Republican nomination and that not a dollar of the money has been taken in a week's time.

CULT OF THE EXTRAVAGANT.

Thinking in bubbles is becoming a too common practice. Information bureaus in every American city are deluged with questions that manifest this dangerous trend of modern thought.

Come daily, for instance (personally, by phone or letter) inquiries as to location of oil wells that will turn ten-dollar bills overnight into million-dollar, gilt-edge securities; calls for addresses of doctors skilled in transplanting monkey glands, divine healers guaranteed to cure a bed-ridden paralytic of twenty years' standing in the twinkling of an eye; requests for the name of the company organized to shoot passenger rockets to the moon and the probable price of tickets; demands for particulars of the new light that will compel the most recalcitrant hen to lay two eggs every twenty-four hours; the picture of the latest automobile said to run on the perpetual-motion principle; the number of the patent of the device for preserving fruits and vegetables indefinitely by the direct action of the earth's magnetism; the prices charged by the new voice teacher advertised to add basso profundo tones to a coloratura soprano register; the text of the last authentic communication received from the spirit world; information, in fact, as to any scheme or proposition sufficiently freakish, fantastic, explosive or preposterous.

As long as people think extravagantly they will be extravagant in their expenditures, pleasures, legislative experiments and religious expectations. Conversely, too, so long as government is extravagantly administered people will continue to think along extravagant lines. America today confronts a thought-traffic problem that must be adjusted or national congestion of the brain, worse than any congestion of the city streets, will be the inevitable consequence.

There are many reasons for this wave of outrageous thought at present sweeping the sea of human sanity. Principally, of course, it springs from the world waste and wreckage of the war, from the abnormal methods governments were forced to employ in that life-and-death struggle. People are still blowing bubbles from the foam of the unsubsided flood.

A strange spiritual tension, the heritage of five years' intimacy with death, has been distorted by false prophets for the infection of modern religious thought with the prevalent fever. To a definite degree they have succeeded. The highly-spiced Sunday supplement of certain yellow journals has had an appreciable effect in disrupting the popular sense of harmony and proportion. Motion-picture plays have added to the mental confusion, under the supposition they were catering to a taste that in reality they were helping to create.

This mass of extravagant thinking has produced an era of wild finance. Artificial prices and exploited wage boosting have fanned the spark into a fitful flame of gorgeous prosperity. By and by it will be smudged out, of course, by the cold law of supply and demand.

The gambler is abroad in the land. Speculative stocks and wild-cat propositions are now openly advertised as straight gambles, inviting all who are prepared to lose a few hundred dollars to take a long-shot chance on the wheel of fortune. We are told by respectable concerns that no one ever gets rich by the fruits of unaided industry alone.

This appears to be in keeping with modern inclinations. Yet every man who tosses careless dollars into the speculative jackpot is wasting the products either of his own or somebody else's toil. Under this wild stimulus, is it any wonder if the police of a big city find it a colossal job to round up the smaller fry of tin-horn gamblers, naturally multiplied by such direct encouragement from above? Yet if some obscure poker joint escapes the official vigilance a great outcry is raised against the police by those who voice no protest against the open game.

These people could co-operate with the police by practicing thrift and economy themselves and so changing the popular thought waves. But this lacks spice and excitement.

Old-fashioned ideas of morality are also twisted askew by the new extravagant way of thinking. Morality itself can never be made amenable to the whims of fashion, however temporarily distorted may be men's conceptions of it. But it can be, and is being, fitted with high-priced garments.

So we see a popular picture play featuring the latest notions of how to be happy though married. And the moral is that a wife's best recipe for holding a husband is to circumnavigate in a state of semi-nudity and feed the animal cigars, Scotch highballs and jazz canned music. This same wife is also held up to light ridicule for dressing modestly, affecting classical concerts and reading a book on "how to improve the mind." The worst of it is the audience, who nightly see the performance, unmistakably indorse this view of married life.

To cultists of the extravagant an attempt to improve the mind by reading books is supremely ridiculous. We must confess an unusual spirit of tolerance is displayed in this picture play. This spirit of tolerance is ready to forgive society not only most of its vices, but even a few of its virtues. The latter, at least, are only mildly condemned with light laughter.

There are three motion-picture houses in Bagdad, a Mesopotamian city in the region of Babylon. In the good old days of Haroun-al-Raschid there was an atmosphere of romance around Bagdad, the city of the Thousand Nights tales; but its sacred precincts have been invaded by the films and they do say the natives go into raptures over the Wild-West scenes. They do not care for the love stories, but Charlie Chaplin wins in Bagdad just the same as in Hongkong.

TURK AND LEAGUE.

The failure of the United States to become a member of the League of Nations and to accept a mandatory for Constantinople is the reason assigned by the Allied Council for declining to accept President Wilson's recommendation that the Turkish government be driven from Europe.

According to a Paris cable the Allied Council holds that if the United States declines to accept the responsibility for the result of driving the Turkish rulers out it is not entitled to any special consideration in the final disposal of the Turkish question. The Allied conference offered to the United States a mandatory for Turkey; but it could not be accepted when the President and Senate failed to agree on reservations making a ratification of the peace treaty possible. The Allied Council holds that the attitude of isolation which this country has taken deprives it of any right to interfere in the affairs of Europe and Western Asia.

Fate has a peculiar trick of coming to the rescue of the Turk just when he is about to be cast out of Europe. For more than a century the Turkish government has been little more than a reign of legalized pillage. Millions of Christians have been killed in massacres and holy wars. Justice has never been established as a principle of government within the Turkish dominions; yet the Turk has lingered on. He owes his precarious existence to the "balance-of-power" policy by which the affairs of Europe have been regulated since the Napoleonic wars.

For a time two years ago it looked as though this rule of force and secret diplomacy was to be replaced by justice. But the President and Senate started to squabble just at the time they should have been pulling together; and the result of the "hitter-end" fight in Washington was to give the Turk a new lease of life in Europe.

President Wilson's protest was received and ordered filed. It looks on the surface as though the greater part of the sacrifice made during the World War was made in vain. But The Times still holds to the belief that the Treaty of Versailles is not dead and that by this time next year the United States will be a member of the League of Nations. In that case the sentence for the Turk is only suspended.

FOR UNIVERSAL TRAINING.

One of the strongest indorsements that universal military training has yet received was accorded by a recent letter of thirty of the leading physicians of the country to members of Congress urging that universal training be incorporated as a basic principle of all future army legislation.

These physicians view the question not in its relation to the national defense nor as a means of insurance against war. As physicians they are concerned only with its bearing on the national health and the certainty that it will give Americans of the future better bodies and more robust health than the generations which in the past have grown to manhood without undergoing a soldier's training.—[Bloomington (Ill.) DIGGING WINTER AND SUMMER.

How many vanished races changed to clay
Have pondered (as I ponder) in their day
On thy beginning and significance in vain?

Did some gray Merlin of this western sphere
By his strange magic's long-forgotten mimes
Of incantation grave it there,
By its mute testimony to declare
The power of his spell to after-times?

Did some gigantic overlord of bygone days,
Some Titan of a prehistoric age
Cut deep his scutcheon in thy towering side
In honor of a victory or a bride,
Or token of a people's vassalage?

Cleft of the mystic symbol, Arrowhead,
That sphinxlike guards a California plain,
How many vanished races changed to clay,
Have pondered (as I ponder) in their day
On thy beginning and significance in vain?

Events That Should Have Happened.

Bhagvan Dass had the toothache. He had also a shrunken chest.

The shrunken chest was of long-standing and brought him many annas and little pain as he stood at the busiest temple-gate of Benares and howled for alms.

The toothache was new and virulent and interfered with business.

If you ever tried to talk, let alone bowl, with an ulceration the size of a walnut on your jaw, you will understand.

"Janpoola Dha, the healer, who lives beyond the fish market is very skillful," said Sanballat Singh, a fellow beggar to Dass one day, "he treats with healing waves and collects only when cured."

That night Bhagvan called on the healer.

"I shall start the healing waves youward tomorrow," said the healer.

On the morrow the tooth eased somewhat. In three days it was well.

A few days later Bhagvan noticed a peculiar warmth about his chest. Also his clothing was becoming uncomfortably snug across it.

"What can the matter be?" he asked Singh.

"Man you're getting well," the latter said after the examination. "In another week you'll be as full-chested as a prize fighter."

Dass sensed the cause as Sanballat ceased speaking. The healing waves had neither been paid for nor stopped. They were still coming. The toothache conquered they had attacked the diseased chest.

He ran frantically toward the home of the healer. A life of toil held no attractions for him and yet with a sound chest he could no longer beg.

He arrived, and then a wail of despair went up that resounded far beyond the purlieus of the fish market. A note tacked on the healer's door said: "Gone to the mountains to fast and pray. Healing waves will be sent thence daily to the faithful." THREE FALL.

Officials Say the Government Won't Pay Big Award

Can Get Other Sites in San Diego for Air Station.

Ask Carter to Figure Excess Profit on the Deal.

Much speculation is being indulged in at the Federal Building over the $5,000,000 award of damages to the Coronado Beach Company for the 2100 acres comprising North Island, on which the Federal government has established an aviation station. Officials asserted yesterday that much as the government may want the land, it is safe to say it will not pay that amount.

It is considered possible that the award which the government considers grossly excessive, stands a chance of further litigation. Recommendation will be made that the entire project of establishing a permanent aviation field at North Island be abandoned. There are other available sites in that section that can be had for a fraction of the sum found by the San Diego jury, it is stated.

Internal Revenue Collector Carter will be asked, it developed yesterday, to figure on what amount the Coronado Beach Company will be compelled to pay the government on the basis of excess profits, and having cost it practically nothing—in case the amount awarded by the jury is finally paid. If so declared, the company will be compelled to pay 65 per cent. of the amount to the government under the present tax law, that would mean a return of $3,250,000 to Uncle Sam on the net cost of the property, about $2,000,000, which, in addition to many expert witnesses placing the value of the land.

If the property has to be abandoned, the cost will be limited to the cost of North Island during the three years it has been occupied for national defense. There is a chance that no action will be taken until the decision is given on the appeal of the government from the judgment of Judge Trippet that it must pay for North Island if it wants to take it, instead of appropriating it, under the terms of the grant from the Mexican government.

SOME CHURCHES OVER THE TOP.

Interchurch Drive Opens Most Auspiciously.

Large Sums Pledged to Teams on Opening Day.

Solicitors Ready for Week's Intensive Campaign.

From scores of Los Angeles churches representing many denominations, teams of organized workers inaugurated the week's big drive on the Inter-Church World Movement yesterday afternoon. All previous records were excelled in the sum of the contributions received and last night some churches in almost every denomination were reported to have reached or exceeded their quotas.

The total amount for the country is $336,770,572 apportioned among thirty denominations. Many of the Methodist churches have reached their quota because of the big success of the centenary campaign conducted by that church. The Presbyterians have already pledged large sums through the new era movement and other denominations had made careful and enthusiastic preparations for this week's drive.

The first movement yesterday was made upon the members of the churches themselves. The next attack of the soliciting teams will be upon the friends of the churches—the non-members who attend regularly or occasionally.

From the headquarters of the Inter-Church movement, late last night, it was declared that everywhere the workers were meeting with tremendous success.

The Baptists, who have a tremendous money-raising task were intensively organized. Their teams smashed into the work promptly at noon, following a minute's silent prayer. The First Baptist Church alone sent out thirty teams of solicitors. The Temple Baptist Church had an even larger phalanx of gleaners of funds toward the Baptists' $100,000,000 nation-wide "New World Movement." Of this sum, $3,669,000 is to be raised in Southern California.

In many of the churches, pre-campaign gifts were announced and in several instances these with the general subscriptions resulted in putting the church "over the top" with a completed quota.

M'CALL IS FOR HOOVER.

...mer Massachusetts Governor Says Need is for a Practical Man.

...Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts has joined the growing procession of public men who have come out strongly for Herbert Hoover for the Presidency. According to a communication from Edward D. Lyman, head of the Hoover Republican Club in Southern California, from Boston friends of the former Food Administrator. The former Massachusetts executive, whose long record as Governor for constructive legislation made him a conspicuous figure in Republican party ranks, takes the position that Hoover, because of his practical knowledge of problems confronting the world today is the man most needed to be at the head of the nation's affairs during the next four years. His letter concerning Hoover says: "Hoover contributed as much to win the war as Marshal Foch did. Instead of using the methods of destruction, used constructive methods and saved millions of our men. Hoover does not come ... as a partisan, and nonpartisan is what we need in the ... crisis of the world's history. ... have blown up in France ... been merged in England. ... has come to nominate that ... best fitted to cope with ... problems of the day in a practical way. Let us have a practical man rather than a clever politician.

"Hoover has shown a remarkable efficiency and a knight errantry; he has shown the talent and the genius of the practical man. We have often taken a man for President who has won victories in a war; why can we not now take a man who has done as much as any single man to win the greatest of all wars. More than this, after the war was over, Hoover was practically the Food Administrator for the whole world. I plead for a man who will make sure that our youth will no longer be a sacrifice on the altar of war."

Mr. Lyman, in commenting on the value of former Governor McCall's statement, asserted that he had plainly sensed what is now working in the minds of the great mass of American people—that the time has come for a change from the old maching political leadership to that typified by Herbert Hoover.

"Gov. McCall understands, as do all people who appreciate the meaning of this deep, widespread demand for Hoover, that a mighty change has come into the world," declared Mr. Lyman. "The people, as the result of their experiences in the war, are everywhere rejecting the self-appointed leadership of clever, tricky politicians. They know that this faulty leadership has utterly failed, and they want a change."

PORK POLITICS NOT FOR WOOD.

"But what does the Bee writer mean by talking about ingratitude? Does he mean to infer that anyone who served the State under Johnson bartered his soul forever? Does he mean that, as a citizen, I should sink my principles and vote for a man whose views on the great issues are diametrically opposed to mine? Whence does any man derive the right to buy men's souls by the distribution of public offices?

"The Bee article is an excellent illustration of the degradation of American politics. We are to vote, says the Bee, not on the basis of principles, but on the basis of political pork heretofore distributed. We are to consider not what is best for the American people generally, but what is best for our friends. An administration based upon this principle would be a pork-barrel administration, and the American nation is tired of politicians who prate of the people while trading in pork."

STRIKERS RETURN.

Railroads Report Traffic as Near Normal; Many Trains Run.

Rapid reconstruction of the forces scattered when the "outlaw" switchmen's strike was called was reported yesterday by all steam lines. The Southern Pacific was working twenty switch crews in the local yards yesterday, and the Santa Fe and Salt Lake reported that conditions were rapidly improving. The forces are said to be from 50 to 60 per cent. of normal.

All three local roads are accepting perishable freight subject to delay. This statement is being denied by strikers, but the general managers of the companies say they want it understood that freight is being accepted and moved every day. Yesterday the Southern Pacific brought in twelve freight trains and sent out eleven. Reports from Dunsmuir, a Southern Pacific division point, are that all the strikers who had been out there returned to work yesterday at 4 p.m.

MELON GROWERS FACE BIG LOSS.

Lack of Cars may Prevent Cantaloupe Shipments.

Imperial Valley Ranchers File Vigorous Protest.

This Year's Crop Represents 11,000 Cars.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRAWLEY, April 25.—With the virtual settlement of the switchmen's strike and the lifting of an embargo on perishable freight out of the Imperial Valley, the biggest problem Imperial Valley cantaloupe growers and the railroad companies have ever had prevented remains to be solved. This is the securing of an adequate number of "reefers" when with the season less than two weeks away practically everything is at a standstill or in a chaotic state because of the 'outlaw' strike.

Vigorous protests to the sending of reefers gathered by railroad companies for the Imperial Valley to other points than the valley has been made by scores of interested distributors and growers. From the 22,000-acre crop there will be a full 11,000 carloads of "cants" to ship—if the necessary cars can be secured.

At the present time it seems certain that there will be a car shortage which will cut total shipments from one-fourth to one-half.

This will cut the gross total of the cantaloupe growers several million dollars and only the cleverest of handling will save a number of distributors and growers from business failures.

The average advance to the growers by the distributors this year has been between $60 and $100 an acre, it developed this week, and as practically all the "cants" are financed by this method, the car shortage strikes at the very vitals of the industry.

During the past week, the first evidence of the acute seriousness of the situation was brought about by the banks at Brawley declining to honor any more drafts from the growers. At the same time the distributors refused to make any more advances and the grower did not know which way to turn.

The crop will be rolling within fifteen days, and the peak is not more than four or five weeks ahead, so that in order to avert disaster, every possible effort is being made to secure the elusive reefers.

During the past few days the embargo on perishable shipments has been lifted. This released a number of cars of early onions and several of tomatoes. There are between 750 and 1000 cars of tomatoes which must also be moved in the next six weeks as well as 200 carloads of onions.

EXCESSIVE COST TO DELAY IMPROVEMENT.

ENGINEERS ESTIMATE EXPENDITURE OF $30,000,000 FOR BREAKWATER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, April 25.—Army engineers announce that the cost of extending the government breakwater to a point off Long Beach would be approximately $30,000,000, according to tentative plans prepared for the work. A complete report of the work has been forwarded to Washington.

While an amendment has been secured by Congressman Randall for a survey for the work, it is not likely that any appropriation for the extension will be made in the near future in view of this excessive cost compared with the present limited need of additional protection that it would afford.

Maj. Downing of the United States Engineers announced today that the dredge San Pedro will begin work soon after June 1 to clean out the main channel and the turning basin to a depth of thirty feet. Agitation for deepening the channel to a depth of thirty-five feet has been begun but no action has been decided upon by the engineers.

The War Department will not commence widening the main channel to 1000 feet until the city makes an arrangement with wharf owners at East San Pedro whereby there will be no damages to be made good by the dredges when placed in the work.

HELD FOR ASSAULT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 25.—As a result of an altercation which is said to have had near fatal results, James McGuffin, who appeared before Judge A. B. Taylor, was bound over to the Superior Court on the charge of assault against Ralph Davis, a neighbor. In the fight Davis was severely cut across the abdomen. Davis is a service man, having spent some months in France. Both men live in the south part of town and both are employees of the Standard Oil Company. The altercation occurred one evening early this month, but McGuffin's preliminary hearing was delayed awaiting the recovery of Davis. McGuffin is at liberty on $1000 bail.

MAY INSTALL PLANT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, April 24.—Plans for the establishment of a dehydrating plant here to care for the grape crop of the Ontario-Cucamonga district, were discussed today at a meeting of local growers and business men at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

The new method is declared much more effective than the old manner of drying by sun and it is said that without the establishment of a dehydrating plant here, the large crop of wine grapes, hard hit by prohibition, will be a total loss. Dehydrating, it is said, increases the value of a ton of grapes from $45 to $200 or $400.

GIRL'S BRAVERY SAVES LIFE OF HER MOTHER.

PORTERVILLE MISS BATTLES FIRE UNTIL BADLY INJURED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, April 25.—Ellen Bridwell, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bridwell of Saucilito, near Porterville, her face and arms badly burned and the hair completely singed from her head, rushed into the bedroom where her mother and baby sister were sleeping yesterday afternoon and awakened them in time to escape from death in their burning home.

A few minutes before the girl accidentally turned over a coal oil lamp in the kitchen setting fire to the house. She fought the flames bravely and only after being burned cruelly and seeing her efforts in vain did she arouse her mother from her nap.

The father, an employee of the Williams Ranch Company, upon whose land the house was located, was working a quarter of a mile away and reached the home too late to be of assistance.

Medical attention was secured for the injured girl immediately and under orders of the attending physician she was brought to one of the Porterville hospitals, where every effort is being made to save her face and arms from permanent disfigurement.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR INDIAN SCOUT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, April 25.—Funeral services for Thomas Winslow Frentress, who died at the age of 96, at his home, 114 Fraser avenue, April 22, will be held tomorrow from the undertaking establishment of Bresse Bros. and Todd. The body will be cremated at the Los Angeles Crematory.

Frentress was an intimate friend of Kit Carson, and was one of the early scouts who lived a thrilling life fighting Indians on the plains. He was born in South Carolina in 1824, and was educated at Galena, Ill. He graduated as a civil engineer from a school in that State in 1848 and in that next memorable year joined the great throng of gold-seekers. He did not arrive in California, however, and after spending some time in Nevada, went to Danbury, Iowa, where he raised a family of eight children. His wife, Martha, died in 1897, and three years later, he married Mrs. Sarah D. Green of Illinois, who survives him.

Frentress came to Santa Monica in 1900. He constructed the first house on Fraser avenue. He was actively engaged in real estate business until six months ago. He possessed a remarkable physique, and had never been sick in all his ninety-six years until two weeks ago, when he began to fail suddenly.

C. N. Green of Humbolt, Ariz., is a stepson of the deceased, and came here to make funeral arrangements for his father.

WIFE SUES HUSBAND FOR FALSE ARREST.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, April 24.—Jennie A. Pletcher of San Francisco yesterday instituted in the Superior Court a damage action against her former husband, Frank H. Pletcher, a Fresno county rancher, for alleged false arrest and imprisonment. She asks damages in the amount of $15,100. The incident on which she bases her action was her arrest on May 23 of last year on a complaint sworn to by Pletcher charging "child stealing" in the alleged technical kidnapping of their daughter, Marion Frances Pletcher, 10 years old. The complaint recites that she was thrown into the common jail where "she was compelled to associate with persons charged with various criminal offenses and where she was detained and deprived of her liberty for a space of several hours."

The suit marks the climax of the difficulties of the pair. Pletcher was recently given a divorce decree on a cross-complaint filed to Mrs. Pletcher's action.

WHITTIER STUDENTS TAKE TO OVERALLS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, April 25.—The overall club idea is working fine here. The masculine element at the high school and college has displayed a veritable variegation of blue and khaki since Friday. A beginning was made Thursday and Friday's recruits swelled the numbers to formidable proportions. At this season of the school year, it is argued, college and high school trousers are beginning to show the inevitable appearance due to the wear of the major portion of a school year, hence the innovation of overalls is all the more welcome to those who forgot to get the "extra trousers" last summer and autumn.

HIGHWAY OPEN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, April 24.—Traffic on La Cadena drive, the main highway connecting this city with San Bernardino, which has been closed to traffic for nearly a mile because of extensive repairs being made to the city's thirty-inch water main, was opened at noon today. The detour necessitated by the repair work has been a great inconvenience to motorists. The city claims the damage to the line has been caused by electrolysis, and the repair bill will be sent to the Pacific Electric Railway Company, which has already given notice that it will not acknowledge the claim.

The presentation speech was made by G. Christopher and Miss Pappas, gowned in Greek costume. Other members of the delegation from the Hellenic Progressive Society were George Voenes, N. D. Nikas, Peter Poulos, S. Tripolitis and Nick Sterios.

Comstock Says All He Lacked was Horse or Camel.

Aborigines' Inventions Told by Museum Expert.

Declares Redskins' Failure Due to Poor Transport.

History might have entirely reversed itself and the course of empire might have flowed from west to east had it not been for the fact that horses, camels and large burden bearers became extinct some 400,000 years ago on the North American continent. This is the view expressed by Dr. John A. Comstock of the Southwest Museum in an address given last evening before the biological section of the Southern California Academy of Sciences.

"A means of getting about is the first essential in spreading human knowledge," he said.

"Transportation began with the horse and dog and has gradually evolved through human ingenuity and the comparison of ideas to its present mechanical state. Where isolated races had no means of such comparisons, progress was greatly checked. Nature played a sad trick on aboriginal man in America when she caused the horse to become extinct. Formerly there ranged on this continent countless herds of camels, elephants and horses, but by the time man had reached here from the Bering Sea area these large quadrupeds had disappeared.

"Consider what might have been the result had all the tribes of America been able to borrow from each other. The art of writing would have been supplied from Central America; a glorious architecture from the Mayas; agriculture and irrigation from the Nahuas; social organization from the Incas; boat building from the Channel Islanders; gold, silver and bronze working from the South American highlands; tailoring from the originators of the art in the far north; wood carving from Alaska; textile weaving from Peru; astronomy and mathematics from the Mayas and Aztecs.

"All of these might have been combined under the influence of transportation and would have produced a high state of civilization at a time when our ancestors lived in caves and bearskins.

HIP! ANOTHER ONE'S ADDED.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

This is the greatest place in the world to live, and Guy Bates Post doesn't care a rap who hears him say it, even if it's Frank Wiggins himself!

Because our climate is unequaled and because living here is a joy (the Chamber of Commerce is welcome to this deeply original line,) Guy Bates Post is going to build a home and live here. That is, he says he may exist for short spaces in other parts of the world, but it's here he's going to live.

This isn't an unusual announcement for a man to make, in fact it's always done. I don't think I've ever met a celebrity, with one exception, who didn't say he was going to. This exception was a condemned murderer, and the reasons why he didn't say so are obvious. Especially is this true of dramatic stars, such, for instance, of productions like "The Masquerader," concerning which I believe Will Wyatt will not be angry to have me divulge the fact that it plays at the Mason this week. But the exciting thing about Mr. Post's statement is that it happens to be true. If you don't believe it, you should see the plans as I did. In fact, I always demand to see the plans nowadays.

If further proof be needed that those plans are not made use of in each city which Mr. Post visits, let me relate that they include a solar heater on the roof, an ingrowing patio, an outgrowing sleeping porch, a roof garden, a garage as large as the house, also a golf-utensils receptacle in the front hall, and a place for a cistern. This last, taken in conjunction with the other features, is clinching proof. An Easterner planning to build in the West, always provides a place for a cistern, even sometimes a cistern itself, but he never uses it. Where else in the world would you find this combination, I'd like to know. Also there are unlimited screens and screen porches to keep out the flies and mosquitoes, but the Chamber of Commerce in copying this article needn't mention this, if they don't wish. The story is written so that they can leave that part out without damaging the style of the story. Mr. Post says he doesn't care, in fact, if some enterprising civic organization or land company copy out this whole interview and illustrate it with those lovely colored lithographs such as are to be found nowhere in the art world save in their prospecti and in the beautiful red labels on the peach and tomato cans.

In this triumphant winning of Mr. Post as a resident, we've not been without stiff competition. Other communities have been after Mr. Post, hot-foot. They've even argued bitterly with Mr. Post against us. Hitting us on our tenderest spot, they've said, for one thing, that in California you can never tell, really, when the seasons change. Well, says Mr. Post, what of it? And when you come to think of it, what of it, sure enough? Better that than to live in a land where the calendar doesn't know, either, and where it lies to you joyfully, saying that it's spring and the birds are singing and the flowers blooming, when in fact winter has taken stop-over privileges and is even at the moment blighting your pink toes with chilblains. Besides, he says he will know, anyhow, he always does. All he's got to do is to watch the bills for his wife's hats. Her milliner never fails to know when joyous spring comes bounding along, with the prices for pink silk roses also bounding along, and by the same token he knows when winter, be it never so mild, is upon us, because then is the season that her hats must be wrapped in nice warm tropical birds.

He also says that these base traducers of God's country declare he'd find no snappy weather here. Well, he says, so far as he's concerned he doesn't care a snap whether the weather ever snaps or not! It short, he feels he won't be so much bitten by buying in a land where the climate doesn't bite as where it does, if you get me. You do.

Another argument, Mr. Post says, which our rivals use is that we are all rubes out here. Oh, that's just the most awful thing you can be, in the eyes of some of those come-on agents of the East. Oh, how they sneer at you, says Mr. Post, if all you have to offer is nice clean living conditions, good climate all the year round, wholesome eagerness to patronize the arts, schools that are really for the kids, and last, but not least, the finest roads in the world, and a chance to use 'em all the year 'round! What are these, when placed against the attractions of Greenwich village and the cosmic urge? What's a first-class school system as an attraction when vieing with the wild, hilarious cafe night life, and doings in sinks of inquity to brighten up the morning papers in our home life?

Well, Mr. Post wants to live here, that's all, and his wife seconds the motion.

AUTOS TAKE DEATH TOLL.

Emily avenue, Watts, was fatally injured Saturday night and her daughter Barbara, aged 9, was badly injured, when they were crushed between the rear of an automobile owned and driven by Albert Mather, a mechanic, of 6837 Crocker street, and the front of a store at Third and Los Angeles streets. Mrs. Gove and her daughter were taken to the Receiving Hospital by John T. Cappell of the Hotel Vidamar in his automobile, and the mother died there within an hour. The daughter was badly cut and bruised.

HOLD MAN.

Mather was held in the City Jail on suspicion of manslaughter after an examination by Detective Sergeant Finlinson.

According to the police, the mechanic backed his car away from the curb on the north side of East Third street, at high speed. The automobile turned a semicircle, the rear wheels mounting the curbing on the south side of the street, and plunged backward into the store front, catching the mother between the rear of the car and the store window. The car had to be lifted, witnesses said, to lift her body from beneath the wheels. The little girl jumped, she said, and thus escaped serious injury.

Mr. Gove, who had been in a store with his two other daughters, reached the Receiving Hospital just in time to learn that the mother had died.

Mather gave Detective Finlinson various conflicting explanations as to why he failed to stop his car, but finally stated that he must have stepped on the foot throttle thinking that it was the brake.

IDENTIFIED AS MISSING WIFE.

THE DARK STAIN AGAIN.

An effort will be made today to determine if the dark stains on the lining of the cape are made by human blood, the officers said. A chemist will be asked to make scientific tests. An effort has been made to take them out with chemicals, and it may be hard to determine if the original stains were made by human blood.

Efforts were made yesterday by the authorities and The Times to learn under what circumstances Watson obtained the transportation certificates of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, and the membership cards in the Illinois Commercial Men's Association and the Indiana Commercial Men's Association. The Illinois membership has been paid to date, a money order receipt found in Watson's possession showing that he sent $3 to the organization January 14, 1920, under the name of J. P. Watson. That the suspect carried these memberships to cut down expenses in his extensive travels from wife to wife is the interesting theory of the deputy sheriffs.

At the County Hospital yesterday it was stated Watson is getting along in good shape and that his recovery is only a matter of a few days. The officers on the case are looking forward to it with impatience, as there are many things about which they wish to question him, but it is feared that the man, having recovered his nerve following two attempts at suicide, will "stand pat" and refuse to answer questions about the disappearance of several women.

STAIR FALL MAY KILL.

Mrs. Lizzie A. Duyball, 82 years old, received injuries which may prove fatal when she fell down the stairs at the Hotel Vogel, Seventh street and Broadway, yesterday afternoon. The aged woman was taken to the Receiving Hospital and given emergency treatment by Assistant Police Surgeon Beggs and then sent to the County Hospital. She is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, Dr. Beggs said.

TRUCKS HELP BREAK STRIKE.

Oil Men Depend on Pipe Lines and Autos in Emergency.

Some Delays, but They are of Little or no Moment.

Kern County Continues Lead in Production.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 23.—Equipped to meet almost any emergency which may arise, the oil companies of California are not suffering any great setback due to the unauthorized railroad strike. The great system of pipe lines from the fields of central California have been keeping the crude running in almost every instance and the refineries have been able to work to normal capacity.

Motor trucks, usually utilized for short hauls, are now taking the places of trains in transporting the refined product to meet the demand of dealers and unless the strike is prolonged, no serious setback will be experienced in the industry.

The Standard Oil Company has been supplying the demand with a fleet of fifty-seven trucks in Southern California. The General Petroleum has been hit pretty hard at its Vernon refinery and the usual twenty-car shipments daily have been somewhat curtailed. The refinery is supplied with crude by pipe lines. The Wilshire Oil Company's refinery at Vernon, which has depended upon railroads to carry its crude supply, has felt the strike to some extent, but it has enough refined product on hand to supply its trade for an indefinite period.

The Richfield Oil Company has had more than 100 carloads of refined oils and fuel oil tied up at Bakersfield to be moved to Utah and Arizona, but the railroads are now giving relief from this situation.

The Union Oil Company has been able to relieve the shortage of refined products in many San Joaquin cities and the temporary shortage at Fresno and other points has been relieved. Scattered along the Coast, the Union is running 150 trucks of its own and hired fifty more to take care of the trade.

Perhaps the hardest hit are the oil well supply companies and the concerns doing development work who depend upon the supply companies for materials. Nearly every house has an accumulation of orders ready for shipment to meet urgent demands. The orders are being filled according to their priority. In some instances motor trucks are taking the place of trains and in territory adjacent to the supply depots, materials are being rushed to the fields so that there will be as little delay as possible in drilling new wells.

Kern county continues to produce nearly half of the oil output of California, according to figures for March just compiled. Of the total production of 3,556,031 barrels for the State, the fields of Kern county produced 4,092,917 barrels, from a total of 5368 wells on the pump. The total number of wells pumping in the State is given as 9215. The total daily production in the State for March was 276,001 barrels, of which Kern county produced 131,707 barrels daily.

Three new wells have just been started in the Coalinga field by the Canadian Coalinga Oil Company, section 8, 21-15; Shell Oil Company, section 27, 19-15, and the Southern Pacific, section 11, 19-15. Five wells in this field are under test and three were put under deepening and redrilling process.

Acquisition of oil and gas lands and valuable improvements by homesteading has just received a hard blow due to Commissioner Tallman's cancellation of the homestead entries on the north half and the southwest quarter of section 26, 22-24 on the Maricopa flat in the Sunset field. The entries were protested by the Lakeview Annex Oil Company. The land is within the withdrawn area of 1909, but locations were made long prior to that, hence the right to mineral patent is claimed. While an appeal may be taken to Secretary of the Interior Payne within thirty days after receipt of notice, it is believed that the matter is ended.

Although the government did not intervene in the contest it reserved the right to enter a protest against patents being issued to either party if it deemed such future action proper. Unless this is done the Lakeview will probably receive a patent soon. If Federal protest is made the company is confident of the outcome.

Patent has recently been granted for a fraction of section 25, 12-24, the site of the original Lakeview gusher. While within the withdrawn area, the discovery of oil was too obvious, to permit the authorities to hold up patent.

The Ozena Oil Company, composed of Los Angeles men, is keeping at work near Ozena, about thirty miles southwest of Maricopa. About all that is known is that no oil has yet been encountered, although the officers still have confidence. The land is not patented. The land was never withdrawn from entry and the company expects to get a patent.

The Union Oil Company is drilling two new wells on the Kern River front, one on the Del Rey Company's land, comprising the east half of section 25, 27-27.

R. E. Hesse has leased for twenty years to J. W. Ragsdale a portion of section 29, 28-27 on the Kern River front, near Lerdo, in the vicinity of the new operations carried on by the Standard and the Associated.

ORE TOTAL IS HIGH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AUSTIN (Nev.) April 23.—Work has begun on a number of properties in the Birch Creek district, which promises to develop into one of the most active fields of Nevada before the summer ends. The Nevada Birch Creek Company has sacked a considerable quantity of high-grade ore from its upper tunnel workings and plans shipments as soon as the roads are in condition for heavy freighting. Driving of the upper and lower tunnels is being energetically conducted, and the raise from the lower adit is apparently breaking into the Cahill lode. Ore assaying as high as $109,000 per ton in gold has been found in the upper workings.

With two shifts employed, development of the Cahill Lode group has begun under the personal management of President Jack Cahill, discoverer of the Birch Creek district. The shift has passed through the overlying limestone and entered basalt. This formation should be penetrated within thirty feet and Manager Cahill expects the shaft to reach the Cahill Lode shortly.

The Birch Creek Company, controlled by State Bank Examiner Gilbert Ross and associates, has shipped material to its Bradley property preparatory to sinking a 200-foot shaft. The International Victory Company has arranged for operations on its Birch Creek holdings on a larger scale, and a number of outlying properties are receiving attention.

FIRM INCORPORATES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUMA (Ariz.) April 25.—B. A. Wyle, J. M. Holmes and W. J. Palenthrope of Los Angeles have incorporated the Swansea Stock Administrating Company, with capital stock of $10,000 and with offices at Swansea, Paris, Lille and Amsterdam. The greater part of the stock of the Swansea Mines Company was held, before the war, at the European points named. Since the war a considerable proportion of the stockholders cannot be reached. The mine at Swansea is leased by the Clark interests of Los Angeles.

WILL COMBINE INTERESTS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) April 23.—It now appears that there may be no actual sale to the Phelps-Dodge Corporation of the properties of the Arizona Copper Company, Ltd., but that under consideration is a combination of interests, to the end that each company shall have its own defined field of operations. At present, especially in the Morenci section, the two great corporations are working many adjoining properties separately, that could be handled with a much greater degree of economy if conjoined in operation. In all the years the two corporations have been neighbors there has been the best of feeling between them and there was early determination of a side-line agreement that has avoided much possible friction.

The Detroit branch of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation has been shut down for some time past, awaiting development of better reduction processes at Morenci, while the Arizona has been running much under possible production, in common with other Arizona coppers.

Now is announcement that the two local properties are to have close inspection by engineers during a period of months. After that, on the basis of the report prepared, the matter of purchase, consolidation of interests or of division of localities may be taken up. It has been determined that, with the lessening values of the ore mined, some such action must be taken if adequate profit is to attend the operations of either company.

EXPLORE CAVE CREEK PROPERTY FOR COPPER.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX, April 23. — The old Cave Creek district, for forty years mined in the development mainly of small gold and silver ledges, is to be explored extensively for large bodies of low-grade copper. The Longyear Company of Denver has taken a contract for drilling 4000 acres, held by the Arizona Cave Creek Mines Corporation, which has options or bonds upon the Mormon Girl, Cram Mountain, Maricopa, Philes, Apache Chief, Pocahontas and other groups. Few of the present workings are of considerable depth.

Two diamond drills are to be started at once, sinking through schists of several sorts, but generally similar to those found at the Kay mine, to the east, and in the Bradshaw districts. There are good indications, in areas of iron-stain, with carbonate copper croppings. The whole of the company's holdings is full of mineral, but there is to be an especial effort to find the copper in lenses.

The company's operations here are in charge of Alfred Strong Lewis, a mining engineer, who made an exhaustive survey of the district before going east for capital. He has enlisted the support of a group of New York, Buffalo and Rochester capitalists, including Edgar N. Curtice, William Bausch, Carl Lomb, T. R. Finucane and John N. Beckley. The property lies within thirty miles of Phoenix, directly to the north, and could be reached readily by rail construction.

WILDCAT FOR OIL IN VICINITY OF PHOENIX.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX, April 23.—The Phoenix Oil Exploration Company has been formed by thirty local residents, headed by Mercer D. Wilson, and has employed John E. Faber as a location agent. Company officials believe oil land has been found near this city and several locations for drilling already have been acquired.

A revival of interest is noted in the oil fields of the Verde Valley, where several wells were drilled about ten years ago, to depths of 1400 and 1650 feet. In Jerome the Cornville Oil Company, has incorporated to sink several wells above Camp Verde. It is believed 4000 feet depth may have to be reached to strike oil sands. It is said oil of paraffine base was found in both deep wells heretofore sunk.

There is to be boring for oil also in the upper Gila Valley, near Safford, where H. B. Lawrence of Los Angeles is working with a large local committee on plans for drilling, Mr. Lawrence to furnish half the funds required.

A strike of real oil is reported in a 270-foot well on the Brinkley ranch, eighteen miles southeast of St. Johns, in Apache county, though there had been no expectation of oil when the well was started after water. Springerville residents have formed a company, have leased a large tract and have sent for a drilling rig.

Little appears to be doing in the Holbrook field, but there is promise of great activity with the coming of better weather.

TURN TO PIONEER MINE.

Work to be Started on Old Producer of High-grade Ore.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MAYER (Ariz.) April 23.—Work is to be started on the Black Horse group of the Peak Silver Mining Company, a pioneer producer of high-grade ore that was shipped as far as Swansea, Wales. Favorable report on the Peak property has been made by Frank L. Giroux, manager of the adjoining Swastika mines, and by H. H. Keays. The Peak has two veins, one of them an extension of the Swastika. There also is a copper vein, developed to only twenty feet, with assays running from 8 to 20 per cent.

The Swastika is receiving machinery for a fifty-ton ball and tube mill, expected to be in operation early in the summer. Plans are being made for adding a second unit of the same size.

At 250 feet depth a four-foot ledge of chalcocite has been cut in the property of the Arizona Copper and Mining Corporation.

A reduction plant for the concentration of low-grade chalcopyrite is being hauled to the Springfield copper claims, owned by G. P. Harrington of Crown King.

The Lowton Finance Company of New York is operating a mill in the Black Canyon section. Ore is mainly from the Thunderbolt vein of the Black Canyon property. Ore also is being taken from the company's Silver Cross mine. Guy Thrasher is in charge.

TO START DRILLING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHINO, April 24.—The Consolidated Oil Company has taken a part interest in lands controlled by O. K. Clammer, Dudley Pine and the Slaughter ranch, in the hills south of here. The ground was examined by geologists this winter, and their report, which stated that oil indications are favorable, will result in a well being drilled in the hills south of the old county road. The well will be put down to at least 3000 feet.

BIG GUSHER REPORTED IN TAMPICO DISTRICT.

DIFFICULT TO CONTROL NEW SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND BARREL WELL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAMPICO (Mex.) April 21.—The latest addition to the list of big producers here is a 75,000-barrel well of the Island Oil and Transport Company in the Chinampa field, brought in a few days ago. Frank C. Laurie, general manager of the company in describing the difficulties in handling the well said:

"The Island Oil and Transport Company's well is 2180 feet in lime, and will not make less than 75,000 barrels a day. The drillers were Jim Ozenbaugh and Slim Heckart.

"The tools were being withdrawn after the well came in and had reached about 300 feet from the surface when the flow and pressure were so great as to cause slack in the drilling cable which became entangled in the main valve, thus preventing the tools from being blown out, also preventing closing the valve.

"The situation was anything but desirable, but due to the quick action on the part of D. M. Beveridge, drilling superintendent who solved the problem by bringing up several of the company trucks which were used to pull the cable out of the valve by means of running a line over one of the crown pulleys through a snatch block to the trucks, they were able to loosen the 'jammed' cable in the valve, which resulted in the cable and tools being blown out of the hole, enabling them to quickly close the valve.

"The bringing in of this well will give the company ample oil to run its new pipe line to capacity and should bring its exports to over 1,200,000 barrels a month."

The Competition a Company Must Meet

Is Studied Carefully Before We Recommend Its Securities

It is a well-known fact that the demand for electricity in California has always exceeded the supply. We have no coal, and our oil supply is limited and costly. Even though we conserve our oil supply to the best of our ability, the railroads and manufacturing plants of California will, in all probability, have to look to hydro-electricity for power inside of fifty years. It is the only perpetual and certain power. Prior to 1911 there were a few cases of dangerous competition among gas and electric companies in California. The Railroad Commission in several of its first decisions firmly stated that it would not permit any public utility, when trying to run a competitor out of business, to charge a rate too low to meet all expenses and yield a reasonable return upon the invested capital. The days of ruinous competition between California public utilities is therefore past.

The shortage of hydro-electric power will always act as a natural defense against competition. Furthermore, in all the territories served exclusively, any company is protected from competition as long as it renders efficient service at reasonable rates.

Write, call or telephone for information regarding our gas and electric company securities that combine safety and convertibility and yield from 5 to 7 per cent. They are free from all California personal property taxes.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

Inquiries are solicited by persons interested in ... containing ... and tested, with letter ... stating what tests are desired. Make ... of small ... that is to say, not ... Correspondents offering ... for assay ... with acid. ... none of which is intended to show that the ... is from the mine, for instance, with no ... of identification on samples, will, however, receive ... attention obtained.

In Part Saline.

DEATH VALLEY JUNCTION, April 10.—Q.: I am mailing you a sample of rock under separate cover, with my name and address. We have no assayer or chemist here and find it hard to determine whether rock of this nature carries any minerals of commercial value. Will you please test the rock and advise me if it contains any mineral of value. The rock occurs in ledge form in this country near lime and shale. Thanking you in advance for this favor. C.

A.: On three occasions we have tested mineral on the order of your samples sent us for analyses. Two correspondents stated, in writing, that their findings differed from the results obtained by this department of The Times. One correspondent wrote us that: "The ore is positively hydrozincite, for the reason that it turns green when wetted with cobalt solution." The words quoted show that such a test for hydrozincite is a very poor one, indeed. Your samples do not contain even a trace of zinc. They consist of silicate in part that goes to a jelly in acids, and further tests, very carefully performed, prove that the specimens carry sodium sulphate, sodium chlorids, aluminum silicate and "mud." Mixtures of such substances (as proven by analysis) indicate that minerals represented by the samples are of no commercial value whatever.

Lime Carbonate.

LOGANDALE (Nev.) April 11.—Q.: I am sending samples of ore which I found in Southern Nevada. Please state what they contain and of what commercial value, if any? I believe it contains some soda. It acts the same in vinegar as soda. A.

A.: In appearance the samples resemble certain alunite varieties. When it comes down to actual analysis, however, it is very soon determined that the specimens are chiefly calcite (lime carbonate.) They are of the chalk-like lime carbonate variety, and such mineral is of value as fertilizer for lands owned by farmers, and others.

Not Coral.

FULLERTON, April 12.—Q.: Please make tests and analysis of the sample I am mailing you and report the findings in the usual column. Test for coral, as I want to know if it belongs to that family. S.

A.: Ages ago shales originated in the muddy waters of the world; limestones were formed in the clearer waters. Coral is a hard calcareous substance found in the ocean and formed by certain minute coral animals who possess the power of secreting the lime from the waters in which they live; when the animals referred to die their mineral remains get together, as it were forming coral islands. Your sample like coral, certain shells, bones, chalk, calcite, etc., belong to the calcite variety of minerals. The specimen you submit for analysis is a grape-like (botryoidal) variety of lime carbonate, consisting of calcite and aragonite, the last-named variety of mineral being one other lime carbonate. There is some aluminum silicate impurities in the sample with silica present in greater or lesser percentage.

Copper Absent.

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Q.: Please assay and analyze this ore for silver and copper. This ore was located near Boroscivay, Cal., on properties owned by M. B. Miller Company. Thanking you for past favors. M.

A.: The salmon-brown colored sample is chiefly iron silicate; in part, "rosin rock" of the mining boys in the hills; garnet sparingly present. The blackish red specimen is a variety of hematite; chrome traces. Garnet in the rock. The red and white rock is a variety of malapai of the Mexicans. For silver values you are politely referred to assayers.

Halotrichite.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Q.: Will you kindly tell me the name of the different substances contained in the sample inclosed herewith? It was taken from a large deposit of conglomerate on my ranch located about one mile north of Sunland, Cal., in the Big Tujunda. D.

A.: The sample is chiefly iron alum; rather low-grade and impure. When pure, halotrichite contains over 36 per cent. sulphuric acid with approximately 10 per cent. each of alumina and iron protoxide. The taste of the mineral is somewhat nauseous, sweetly astringent, and resembling that of ink.

Copper Values Low.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Q.: Please analyze specimen. A. T. C.

A.: The sample is iron silicate and chloritic rock in part.

Of Doubtful Value.

COVINA, April 14.—Q.: Please classify. F. A. J.

A.: The silicious rock samples contain traces of hematite, molydenite, pyrite, iron oxides and low per cent. graphite.

Quartzitic Rock.

SAN PEDRO, April 14.—Q.: What does the sample consist of? W. W. P.

A.: Some baryte, iron-manganese oxides, strontium traces; zinc traces. The yellowish iron oxide contained in the rock may assay gold.

Uranium Absent.

DOS CABEZOS (Ariz.) April 15.—Q.: This consists of what? MRS. M.

Chrome Traces.

ELIZABETH LAKE, April 15.—Q.: I am sending you four samples. Nos. 1 and 2 are outcropping rocks. No. 3 was found in a gulch between a (probably) asbestos deposit and one of graphite. What minerals do the samples contain? Thanking you. D.

A.: No. 1 is altered magnetite with some scoria (iron froth.) Ilmenite more or less present with magnetite; pyrite traces. No. 3 is magnetic iron ore. No. 4 is iron silicate.

Silica and Gypsum.

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Q.: Please analyze this ore, which I think is some sort of soda or talc. Is it of any commercial value, and what is it used for? B.

A.: Your shipment consists of four samples. Nos. 1 and 3 are of silica. No. 3 (two samples) the white substance is a silicious gypsum. The gray specimen is impure with aluminum silicate and some lime carbonate. No. 4 is on the order of No. 3. To those requiring certain varieties of silica Nos. 1 and 2 might be of some value. The other samples are of doubtful value.

Silicious.

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Q.: Please analyze this sample for carbonate of lime, which I think is in big demand by the local and also the eastern glass manufacturers. This sample was located in the Santa Monica Mountains. Thanking you for past favors. B.

A.: The specimen is an impure and silicious mixture of lime carbonate with some celestite (strontium sulphate;) strontianite (strontium carbonate) traces.

Radioactive.

RENO (Nev.) April 16.—Q.: I am on my way to Washington and would be glad to have your classification of the two samples herein. No. 1 from near Uinta Reservation and No. 2 close to St. George. Both localities in Utah. M. D.

A.: You can take "pictures" with sample No. 1. Place an iron key on the outside of a plate-holder with a sensitized glass plate inside; then put the holder in a dark cupboard. In twenty-four hours develop the plate and you will find the key photographed on the plate. The sample is in part high-grade argentiferous ore; copper present, and the specimen is a variety of carnotite with tyuyamunite, a greenish-canary yellow hydrous potassium—uranium vanadate. Quartz and talcose matter in the mixture. No. 2 is of stalasmite formation. It is one of the finest samples of mixed copper ore ever analyzed. Under the microscope botryoidal (blue) copper carbonate (azurite) shows up in good percentage. Malachite (copper carbonate) shows up in streaks and banded. One other copper carbonate (chessylite) of lamellar structure is in the mass. Covellite (indigo copper) is present in traces only. Azurmalachite (a mixture of green and blue copper carbonates) sparingly present. Lime malachite (a hydrous copper carbonate) traces.

Part of the sample resembles torbernite (hydrous phosphate of uranium and copper; this portion of the sample was analyzed for uranium, and for radioactivity, with negative results. This resemblance to torbernite proved to be acicular azurmalachite.

Altered Rock.

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) April 16.—Q.: I am sending you today a package containing samples from a property located several miles west of here. The specimens are from different places in a deposit of considerable width. Judging from the capping it is several hundred feet wide in places. However, these samples are from a shaft 200 feet deep; drift of 100 feet, and crosscut of twenty-five feet with no sign of being through the deposit. Any information concerning the samples will be greatly appreciated by an old subscriber and admirer of The Times. H.

A.: The samples are indeed very much altered rocks, and analyses indicate that the boys who sunk that shaft were mining for sulphite ores chiefly.

The whitish specimens carry traces of phosphates, and phosphates are present in the white samples streaked with blue seams. All of the samples carry microscopic cupriferous pyrite, in greater or lesser percentages.

We collected some of the greenish-blue matter in the rock, and detected no silver present. The analysis indicated that vivianite and turquoise (altered) are sparingly in the rocks.

As ore, the samples represent matter that would be hard to concentrate over tables, owing to the nature of the rock running high in slimes. It is doubtful if any profit could be had from such ores by the flotation processes, and it is probably wise not to place much faith in the ores contained in the ledge of the shaft you refer to. However, we judge the mine by the samples. Better grade ore may be in that shaft of which we have no knowledge.

STABS AT FOE, CUTS HIMSELF?

Man Said to Have Committed Assault with Weapon on Own Person.

An asserted assault with a deadly weapon committed upon himself is the legal standing of a mighty swing of Manuel Chavoia's knife yesterday, according to Receiving Hospital records.

Chavoia, a laborer, started swinging in the general direction of Salino Dominguez, a much younger and faster man, it is charged. The hardware maneuver was brought about by a slight dispute between the men as they talked near Garnet and Fickett streets, and resulted in Chavoia getting an edge the worse of it, the hospital attaches say. According to the younger man's story, the other drew a knife and stabbed him in the wrist. The second swing in his direction described a circle and the knife cut the swinger. Chavoia was taken to the County Hospital with a dangerous wound in the abdomen and Dominguez placed temporarily in jail.

TWO PAIR HELD UP, BANDITS TAKE AUTO.

ARMED HIGHWAYMEN BUSY AT SAWTELLE AND BEVERLY; GET DIAMONDS.

Armed hold-up men were rather active afoot and on wheels early yesterday morning. One automobile, $145 in cash, $75 worth of watches and about $1000 worth of diamonds were collected by three bandits from five victims, two of whom were forced to accompany the highwaymen on a part of their expedition.

C. L. Fulkerson of the Mount Olive Garage, and Miss Beatrice Burnham, who was riding with him, were the first victims. They were stopped on Doheny drive, near Beverly Hills, and at the point of a revolver relieved of $75 in cash and Miss Burnham's wrist watch. Then they were told to get into the automobile with the bandits and drive to the vicinity of the Soldiers' Home, where they held up G. M. Tull of 5741 Carlton way, and Miss Anna Russell of 3974 Dalton avenue.

After making Tull and Miss Russell get out of their auto the bandits took two diamond rings valued at $1000 from Miss Russell and $60 in cash from her and her escort. Then the bandits forced the four victimse into the Fulkerson automobile, took the other machine and drove toward Santa Monica. Fulkerson drove his car to Beverly Hills, where the quartette made a report to Chief of Police Blair.

W. B. Nelson was the fifth person to be introduced to a loaded gun when he and a highwayman came face to face at Twelfth street and Grand avenue. Three dollars was all the bandit got for his trouble.

STEEL DOORS GUARD LIQUOR TROVES NOW.

LUCKY ONES AREN'T TAKING ANY CHANCES, SAFETY VAULT DEALERS REPORT.

They are hiding it in subterranean steel vaults now.

An explanation of the identity of "it" is unnecessary, for, as everyone should know by this time, it is that liquid article which all of John D's money can't buy.

Therefore, be it understood that when a gent is seen descending into an underground passage in exceeding haste, he is not seeking shelter from crafty winds in a cyclone cellar. He is merely retiring to his treasure trove to revel among his most valued treasures—his booze cache.

Inquiries of the sales managers of local safety vault dealers yesterday revealed that the business of selling burglar-proof safety vaults and steel doors of many-ton weight has been on the boom since last July. The wine cabinet, in all its frailty, has passed into antiquity. The modern liquor cabinet is one of powerful steel walls, with massive steel doors, and to be opened only by one knowing the combination.

One of the local vault company officials admitted yesterday he had sold approximately a hundred heavy vault doors of various weights, but wouldn't give the names of the buyers. Most of them weighed a ton or more and their sale price is listed from $380 up to $10,000. This official stated he had sold them to contractors who were engaged in constructing modern liquor cabinets.

LEAVE IT TO HARRY.

Somebody Shot Him and He Says He's Going to Get Him.

Harry Bullington, 11 years of age, of 1422 San Pasqual street, was the recipient of a .22-caliber bullet yesterday without being greatly inconvenienced The bullet lodged in the fleshy part of his temple, inflicting only a slight laceration.

Mystery surrounds the "shooting," according to the Lincoln Heights police. Harry, the hospital attaches say, knows something about the matter, but refused to talk. The officers say that another boy in the neighborhood took a casual shot in Harry's direction and promise an investigation.

"I'll get him myself," was Harry's remark at the hospital. The boy told Assistant Police Surgeon Beggs that he was playing in the vicinity of Pasadena avenue and San Pasqual when hit.

FOR VISITING ACTOR.

David Knudson, one of Norway's greatest actors, was the guest of the Norway Club last evening at a dinner given at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Judge Craig presided. Mr. Knudson will be the guest of the Ebell Club this afternoon, and this evening he will give a recital at the Gamut Club. He will leave for the north the latter part of the week.

TO HOLD FOY RITES AT ANGELS' CHURCH.

REV. THOMPSON TO CONDUCT SERVICE FOR LEADING LOCAL CLUB WOMAN.

Funeral services for Miss Cora Calvert Foy, who died Saturday night at the home of her mother in San Rafael Heights, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Church of the Angels on Avenue 64, Rev. Harry Thompson will conduct the service, and burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. As a mark of respect for Miss Foy, the Women's Press Club, of which she was for years a prominent member yesterday declared that its meeting for tomorrow afternoon stands adjourned.

Miss Foy was born in this city. Her illness lasted over many weeks and during the closing days of her life she received many expressions of sympathy from the members of such organizations as the Gamut Club, of which she had long been a member. Her influence over musical affairs in the community was marked. For many years she served as president of the Women's Symphony Orchestra.

As a member of the Sierra Club Miss Foy had climbed Mt. Rainier Mt. Whitney and other peaks of the Pacific Coast. In civic affairs she also played a prominent part, being active in the Women's City Club until her final illness. She leaves her mother, Mrs. Lucinda M. Foy, and four sisters and a brother, Mrs. Otto H. Neher, Miss Mary Foy, Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine, Mrs. Remington Olmstead and J. C. Foy.

PLAN BARBECUE WHEN WELL IS SPUDDED IN.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

WHITEWATER, April 25.—Work is going on steadily on the property of the Painted Hills Oil Association near here. The cook house at the site of the first well has been completed, and materials are piled on the ground in readiness for two bunk houses. The material for the derrick is at the station here, and as soon as the workmen are ready it will be hauled to the site of the proposed well. Another gang of men is busy grading roads, and everything will be in readiness for the spudding in of the well in May. The event will probably be celebrated by a barbecue. The total sale of shares in the association amounts to $114,000, with over 700 stockholders. The majority of the stock is held by San Bernardino and Colton people.

SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR.

Million in Gold Goes Through on Way to Mint; Also Fortune in Silver.

So near and yet so far. A bullion shipment of $1,000,000 in gold passed through here yesterday over the Southern Pacific, en route from the mine back country to the San Francisco mint. It was in little bars in the big safe of an express car on an overland train.

Accompanying it were some stacks of silver in 100-pound bricks, ricked up, cordwood style, on the floor of the car. Labels bearing the name of consignor and consignee were pasted upon each silver brick. Moreover, not many days ago a shipment of $265,000 worth of silver bricks rested on a Southern Pacific side track here for half a day.

But Black Bart, if he were here, would have a slim chance to gather in any plunder from the bullion car, because each shipment is accompanied by four guards armed with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers. They never leave the car from the time it rolls out of the mining town until it is unloaded in San Francisco.

SAY VETERAN MAY BE VICTIM OF POISONING.

Suffering from what appeared to physicians to be morphine poisoning, Theodore M. Iafricain of Sebastopol, Cal., died last night at a local hospital, where he was taken after emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital. The former soldier was found unconscious in a room at the Turkish baths near Sixth and Hill streets, and was unable to tell what happened to him. The police think he may have been the victim of an attempt to rob him. American Legion officials took charge of the case and had everything done for him that was possible, but he died without gaining consciousness.

NIP JAIL BREAK.

Wanted Pair Near to Freedom as Officer Waits to Take Them East.

While Chief of Police Odell of Derby, Ct., waited in an outer office to take them East to answer safe-cracking and other charges, W. Clark, alias J. J. Sheldon, alias William Chapman, and Frank Williams, alias George Hilton, who were arrested at Long Beach recently by Detectives Cervantes and Roberson, made a nervy attempt to escape from the beach city jail yesterday afternoon by sawing through the lock bar on their cell. The two were within a sixteenth of an inch of freedom when the quick ear of Police Sergeant Clyde Allen caught the dull rasp of a hack-saw. It is believed the saw was smuggled to the two in their food.

Clark is wanted in New York and other eastern cities on safe-cracking charges, and W Hilams, for whom a reward of $10,000 was once offered, is wanted in Derby, Ct., on charges of cracking four safes and then escaping from jail after locking two officers in a cell.

"Placentia" Field and Pacific Crude Oil & Refining Co. are face to face with bright future.

After all the noise and exaggeration from many doubtful directions have expended themselves, we predict that these two names will cut an important figure in crude petroleum production in California.

They are part of Richfield Field, where big things yet will happen.

If you have learned your lesson and have stopped chasing rainbows, join with us in "going for oil."

"SILVER HORDE" VIVID DRAMA WITH NOVEL SCENES.

By Grace Kingsley.

All the plots and combinations of plots having been used up in pictures long ago, so far as the human equation is concerned, it seems as if there remains only the device of placing characters in a new physical setting to give freshness to a screen story, with the setting sharing somewhat in interest. This is especially true since dialogue is absent, and because there can be no extensive character analysis.

Take Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," on view at the California, for instance. This has to do with a fight for fishing rights on an Alaskan river between an unscrupulous owner of a great cannery and three gritty pioneers who don't propose to be put out. One of these is a woman, and not only a woman, but a character we learned to like very much in the old days of "The Spoilers," viz., Cherry Malotte. She lives up to our old remembrances of her.

Rex Beach has a knack of writing stories that when produced on the screen are quite actor-proof, director-and-producer-proof. Nevertheless it is pleasant to record that Goldwyn and Frank Lloyd, using a very good cast, have given us a fine and vivid picturization and regards novelty the pictures of the running of the salmon, taken up north, are interesting in themselves. Their dramatic importance becomes evident when Cherry, who has been anxiously waiting, along with her partners, runs down to her confreres who are fighting the minions of the crooked rival, crying out in joy: "It is here! You've won! The fish are running! They're running in millions!"

A new matinee idol appears in the person of Curtis Cooksey, as Boyd Emerson. He plays the role of a regular guy in convincing fashion. Betty Blythe as the spoiled, dainty, alluring Mildred Wayland convinces. Myrtle Steadman completely fulfills one's ideal of that charming good scout, Cherry Mallotte, the idealized dance hall lady, high-minded despite her rough surroundings, and R. D. McLean is forceful in a role which is rather passive. Robert McKim is the handsome, intriguing villain to the life, and others deserving mention are Hector Sarno, Bull Durham, M. B. Flynn, Neola Mae, Frederick Hanton, Carl Gerard, and Murdock MacQuarrie.

DASHING STAR HIGH SPEEDS AT MILLER'S

Did I just say there's nothing new under the sun in pictureland? Well, anyhow, there's a great big chunk of ingenuity in Stephen Fox's story, "The Valley of Tomorrow," which serves as William Russell's current picture, now on view at Miller's.

In this story, Mr. Fox adroitly gets his characters into the most poignant predicaments, and then as skillfully gets them out again. Human predicament never is a matter of one angle, as some picture story writers would have us believe, and it is partly in this matter of presenting many-sided situations that "The Valley of Tomorrow" proves such an absorbing story. A man in jail for moonshining in a country where moonshining is considered a virtue by the inhabitants, learns his sister has killed herself over a scoundrel. He escapes to avenge her death, is bemired in a stream, then saved by the scoundrel, and later falls in love with the scoundrel's sister. Both of these latter circumstances do make the chances for sister's being avenged fade.

Afterward, by a curious play of circumstance, the hero is turned into something of a defender of the scoundrel after he has wounded him. On giving the man some merely humane attention the hero is turned upon by his own relatives.

Except that he is the least bit stagey at times, Mr. Russell is fine and convincing as the hero. Mary Thurman looks lovely, but has much to learn about expressing emotion. Harvey Clark is fine as Long John Morgan, the effectiveness of his playing being all the more remarkable as the role is largely a thinking part. Fred M. Malestesta is as hateable as he can be as the villain, and the other parts, played by Frank Brownlee, Pauline Curley, Frank Clark, Lewis King and Jeffrey Sloan, are pleasingly done.

BLANCHE SWEET IN SPIRITED COMEDY.

The occasional glimpses of Blanche Sweet which I get on the screen are so unfailingly delightful; she is so natural and easy in her acting, with the effect always of superior intelligence, that I only regret I do not see much more of her, or that more of our screen actresses do not study her work.

Miss Sweet is at the Victory this week in "The Deadlier Sex," which, despite the name, is a thoroughly delightful, even if rather unbelievable, comedy by Bayard Veiller. In theme it's a sort of antithesis of "The Taming of the Shrew," with a money-grabbing railroad owner who believes in squeezing everybody to the wall for his own purposes, kidnaped by a rival owner of a railroad, a woman, but one who believes in him and wants to reform him. Her reason for kidnaping him is partly in order to get him out of New York, however, so that he may not put a crimp in her railroad.

The comedy is turned into melodrama by the appearance of a villain who nearly puts an end to the man's life, besides attacking the girl. But the play reaches comedy level again, after the hero finds out who the heroine really is, she having posed theretofore as a native of the island. There's a good, smart fight on between the two as they try to beat each other to civilization after the girl's identity has been disclosed by rescuers.

Mahlon Hamilton, Winter Hall, Roy Laidlaw, Russell Simpson and Boris Karloff give Miss Sweet excellent support.

The whole programme is delightful and includes a very funny Hall Room Boys' comedy and an especially good Chester Travelogue.

LOEW TO COMPETE WITH THE ORPHEUM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) April 25.—Irving Ackerman, one of the originators of the Ackerman and Harris circuit in the West and who now is western representative of Loew's, Inc., announced here today that Marcus Loew has definitely decided to enter the two-a-day high-class vaudeville field in competition with the Orpheum circuit. Mr. Ackerman left here for Los Angeles tonight. He said that it was planned to play the new vaudeville in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, Sacramento, Pasadena, Denver, Salt Lake City, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria and Winnipeg.

He said that the new houses in Los Angeles would be utilized in exploiting the biggest acts that money could buy and that Marcus Loew intended to make a chain of two-a-day houses that would stretch completely around the country, as he intended to build a new theater in New Orleans and several other cities where the present Loew theaters were inadequate. Mr. Ackerman came to New Orleans from New York, where he conferred with Loew.

The play will be given in part at the May Day celebration to be held at Lincoln Park, in which the students of the school will participate. Miss Sloan-Orcutt, is in charge of the festival work. Competitive drills by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps will be held.

GRIFFITH STAR DIES IN EAST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 25.—Clarine Seymour, widely known as the Cutie Beautiful star of Griffith pictures, passed away tonight in this city, following an operation for intestinal trouble. The last picture in which she appeared was "The Idol Dancer."

She began her screen career with Thannhouser, and appeared with Pathe, Rolin and Christie. She won the laurels of fame with Griffith, however, on her appearance in "The Girl Who Stayed at Home," a war story.

Miss Seymour will be buried Wednesday from her home in New Rochelle, N. Y.

"THE IDOL DANCER."

RICH PICTURESQUENESS IN GRIFFITH FEATURE.

By Edwin Schallert.

D. W. Griffith has changed his setting but not his scheme of picture scheme of picture play making. He is still obsessed with a single plot-climax idea. This is the only conclusion you can come to regarding "The Idol Dancer" this week at the Kinema, despite its gorgeous South Sea Island glamour. Of course, the picture is different. Yes. Instead of putting a halo about his principal characters as he did in "The Greatest Question," the master-producer has put a hula around them. And as he seems to deal more effectively with hulas than halos, "The Idol Dancer" appears as a better play than the predecessor.

If you had never seen a Griffith picture prior to "The Idol Dancer" you would think it was one of the greatest films that had ever blazed forth in a holocaust of effulgence. Tropical splendors of the most glorious kind, realism of native customs, a battle climax that holds in modified solution some of "The Clansman's" best punches, all reveal a big understanding of photographic beauties and a superb technique.

But that is all. The story ends with the usual chase from room to room, the battering down of doors, the heroine struggling in the arms of the villain—all the melodramatic claptrap that takes the pleasant taste away from sense delighted by the luxuriousness of the earlier episodes.

There is a brief suggestion of a religious motif that lacks potency because it is not emphasized, and appears rather like an apology for treading on missionaries' toes in "Broken Blossoms." It looks, too, as if the beach-comber and Luana had been borrowed from "The Bird of Paradise" as privileged characters.

Clarine Seymour plays the Luana like heroine, and here is room for true regret of an unexpected kind. I have just this moment received a telegram telling of her death in New York. It is pitiable to think that she should pass away just at the time she was beginning to attain the fullness of success in the picture world. She is a creature of exquisite charm in this photoplay, and her dancing and acting are full of childish warmth and naturalness which gained her fame originally. Richard Barthelmess is climbing steadily as an actor. His beach-comber is a worth-while study of intelligent interpretation. The remainder of the cast carry their roles in the usually finished manner that is apparent in practically every Griffith production. The comedy is one of the principal delights of the picture.

TOM MIX AT THE SYMPHONY AGAIN.

Remember Tom Mix a few weeks ago at the Symphony in the play he wrote and subtitled so humorously himself? Well, he's at the same theater again, though he has been so busy acting in the interim that he hasn't had the time to pen another play. Consequently, "Desert Love," the present vehicle for ridin' and shootin', is not his but another's. Jacques Jaccard wrote and directed it, performing both jobs with neatness.

In "Desert Love" Mix plays two roles, that of Buck Marston, Sr., a Sheriff who was killed early in the game by a band of outlaws, and that of Buck, Jr., who lives and avenges, the scenario writer offering a good and sufficient excuse for his revengeful nature by making him part Apache. Of course, there is a love tangle mixed up with the riding and shooting—a tangle that wouldn't have been if some of the characters most concerned had used a little common sense and asked a question or two. But since none were asked—or rather, since the irate father permitted no one to say a word—the heroine was married to the villain at the point of a revolver, and then freed by the discharge of another—a situation that is as exciting as it is improbable.

All in all, "Desert Love" is a good example of its kind, a genuine western thriller of the sort warranted to be swallowed in delighted gulps in London and New York. Mix is improving rapidly as an actor, and as for his ridin' and shootin'—oh, boy!

His support is fine, with Francelia Billington and Eva Noak in the chief feminine roles. The names of the men—good actors all—I have unfortunately forgotten.

YOUTHS' FOLLIES TOLD AT CLUNE'S BROADWAY

Some day somebody is going to create a pulsating story of artist's life for the screen. But it hasn't been done yet, and scenario writers will do well to study the work of some of the people who have really achieved success in this line, like Leonard Merrick, the English novelist, or, for more serious treatment of the subject, the continental Europeans.

Despite the fact that it owes something to that well-informed person, Lou-Tellegen, in the matter of authorship, "Blind Youth," which is on view at Clune's Broadway, is in no sense an accurate study of artistic life—no more than the principal character is an artist. The picture does, however, make a nearer approach to the true viewpoint than most. The opening reflects a "La Boheme" charm, and there is a certain contrasting of idealism and materialism, with the balance in favor of the former, that is interesting; but there is lacking the pulse of effort and achievement—the continually going forward that would make the photoplay the real sketch of artistic life it sets out to be. What is more, the men in this picture, as in the previous production of the same concern—"Wives of Men"—lack virility.

The foolish entanglements of youth form the theme of the story. The antipathy between snobbery and solid endeavor and success are the inimical motifs which it sets forth. The climax is handled with deftness that relieves it from the commonplace. All of this helps to make an attractive, though not vital, picture.

The acting is excellent, the women shining above the men by virtue of their parts. Walter McGrail, cast as the artist, has a pleasing personality, but does not add any depth to the sentiment which apparently rules the actions of the character he portrays. Ora Carewe provides a very satisfactory interpretation of Clarice Chandoce, while Leatrice Joy manifests feeling in the role of Hope Martin, and Clara Horton is a rather entrancing creature of light as the little cabaret dancer. Colin Kenney, Buddy Post and Leo White are responsible for excellent portrayals.

"Virgin of Stamboul."

Oriental pageantry is still spreading glamour on the screen of the Superba Theater this week. "The Virgin of Stamboul," starring Priscilla Dean, will continue showing until Saturday night. Tod Browning, director of the production, has revealed his ability in massing effects in the very thrilling climax of the photodrama, which is remarkable in the swiftness of its closing action.

A dance prologue in which Arthur Jamine and Lola Gonzales present oriental numbers, is an additional attraction.

"Polly" Still Amuses.

Polly's French accent and piquant ways are still amusing capacity audiences at the Morosco Theater. David Belasco's comedy has proven admirably suited to the talents of the company, and has given the public an altogether new angle on Eleanor Woodruff's adaptability to an unusual role.

"Polly with a Past" will probably run several weeks longer, although the company has already gone through rehearsals of "The Naughty Wife," which will be played next.

Glaum Film Success.

Louise Glaum's most successful achievement—that is what "Sex," which is now showing at the Alhambra, gives indications of being. The photoplay is now in the second week at the theater, having previously shown at the Kinema.

Miss Glaum has a role which affords a larger range for her talents than any in which she had previously appeared. The story has a very convincing ending.

"Little Journey."

"The Little Journey" at the Majestic Theater is turning out to be quite a long trip, for the play is now traveling in the third week, with every indication of continuing success in the size of the audiences. Principal roles in Rachel Carothers' transcontinental comedy are portrayed by Edward Everett Horton, Evelyn Varden, Marie Curtis, Willamene Wilkes, Franklin Pangborn, Jerome Sheldon, Dick Morgan, Olga Eide and others.

"For Soul of Rafael."

The spell of old California days, woven into photoplay form, is fascinating audiences again this week at Grauman's Rialto, The Clara Kimball Young picture, "For the Soul of Rafael," founded on the novel by Marah Ellis Ryan, continues its showing. Miss Young is exceptionally well supported in this feature, and the staging of the scenes holds the picturesqueness of the romantic period.

"Weegee, Weegee."

Travestying the ouija board craze in a very amusing manner is what Ed Armstrong and his musical comedy company are doing this week at the Burbank. Their latest production of music and nonsense, called "Weegee, Weegee," contains explosive moments of laughter, aroused by monkey business with the wooden oracle.

One of the principal pieces of business is where the board advises the owner where to find the last case of champagne. Just as he and the multitude of friends who always show up at such a critical moment, are preparing to put on a Babylonian feast, they are arrested by prohibition agents.

Musical numbers are given by Irene Brooks, Grace Newton, Howard Evens and Rookie Lewis, with the assistance of the trio and the chorus. Mr. Armstrong and Harry Sherr are the principal laugh makers.

Florence Stone in "Tosca."

Florence Stone, noted for her portrayals in Sardou plays, is again to be seen as one of the dramatist's heroines next week in this city. A tabloid version of "La Tosca" will be presented as the headliner of the Pantages bill. A very unusual setting and company are promised by Alexander Pantages to set off suitably the brilliance of the star.

As has been rumored, Miss Stone is soon to be starred in a series of films under the direction of William J. Bowman, who is writing the scenarios himself. Three are already completed. The vaudeville tour has been arranged so that Mr. Bowman may study the nature of Miss Stone's capabilities. He himself is to appear in her production in the role of Baron Scarpia.

National's New Serial.

One of the best known of serial directors has been engaged to direct "The Son of Tarzan," about to be put into serial form by the National Film Corporation of America, according to announcement yesterday. This director, whose name will not be divulged until he reaches Los Angeles, is now preparing to leave an eastern studio. Joe Brandt, eastern representative of the National, will accompany him west, according to studio advices. Jack Hoxie, who starred in "Lightning Bryce," will be featured in "The Son of Tarzan," which is the last of Edgar Rice Burroughs's books of African jungle lore.

The South Sea Islands will be the background of some of the scenes of the picture, and "The Star of the East," a fast yacht, has been converted to transport the serial personnel to the islands.

PHILHARMONIC MEN HONOR W. A. CLARK.

"One ball, two balls, three balls, out—" shouted W. A. Clark, Jr., yesterday acting as umpire at an impromptu ball game between two sections of Philharmonic Orchestra men at their outing at the Medjeska ranch in Orange county. With coat off and wearing his cap at a rakish angle, the Philharmonic's sponsor entered thoroughly into the spirit of the affair given in his honor by the musicians.

Thirty automobiles brought the members of their orchestra, their families and invited guests to the ranch. Turkey dinner was served on picnic tables under the oaks. Conductor Rothwell treated the men to cigars and cigarettes.

Dancing was enjoyed in the early twilight, and the party broke up with three loud cheers for Mr. Clark.

Mrs. Rothwell was the only one personally interested in the orchestra who was absent. She feared the long trip might prove too taxing, in view of her debut here with the Philharmonic next Friday afternoon.

PEGGY HYLAND FILM.

The Triby idea is used with rather good effect in the photoplay "Black Shadows," starring Peggy Hyland, which is showing on the screen at the Hippodrome. This film production heads a vaudeville bill that introduces Caesar Rivoli in a series of impersonations, including a fully-worked-out playlet, "Scandals in a Restaurant;" Helvey and Brill who play the piano, saxaphone and cornet, also sing; George Graves and company, in an amusing act, "The Woman of a Thousand Secrets;" Fisher and Everts in songs and comedy talk; De La Monteux, female impersonator, and White brothers, comedy acrobats.
